Kids weary as crackdown begins

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

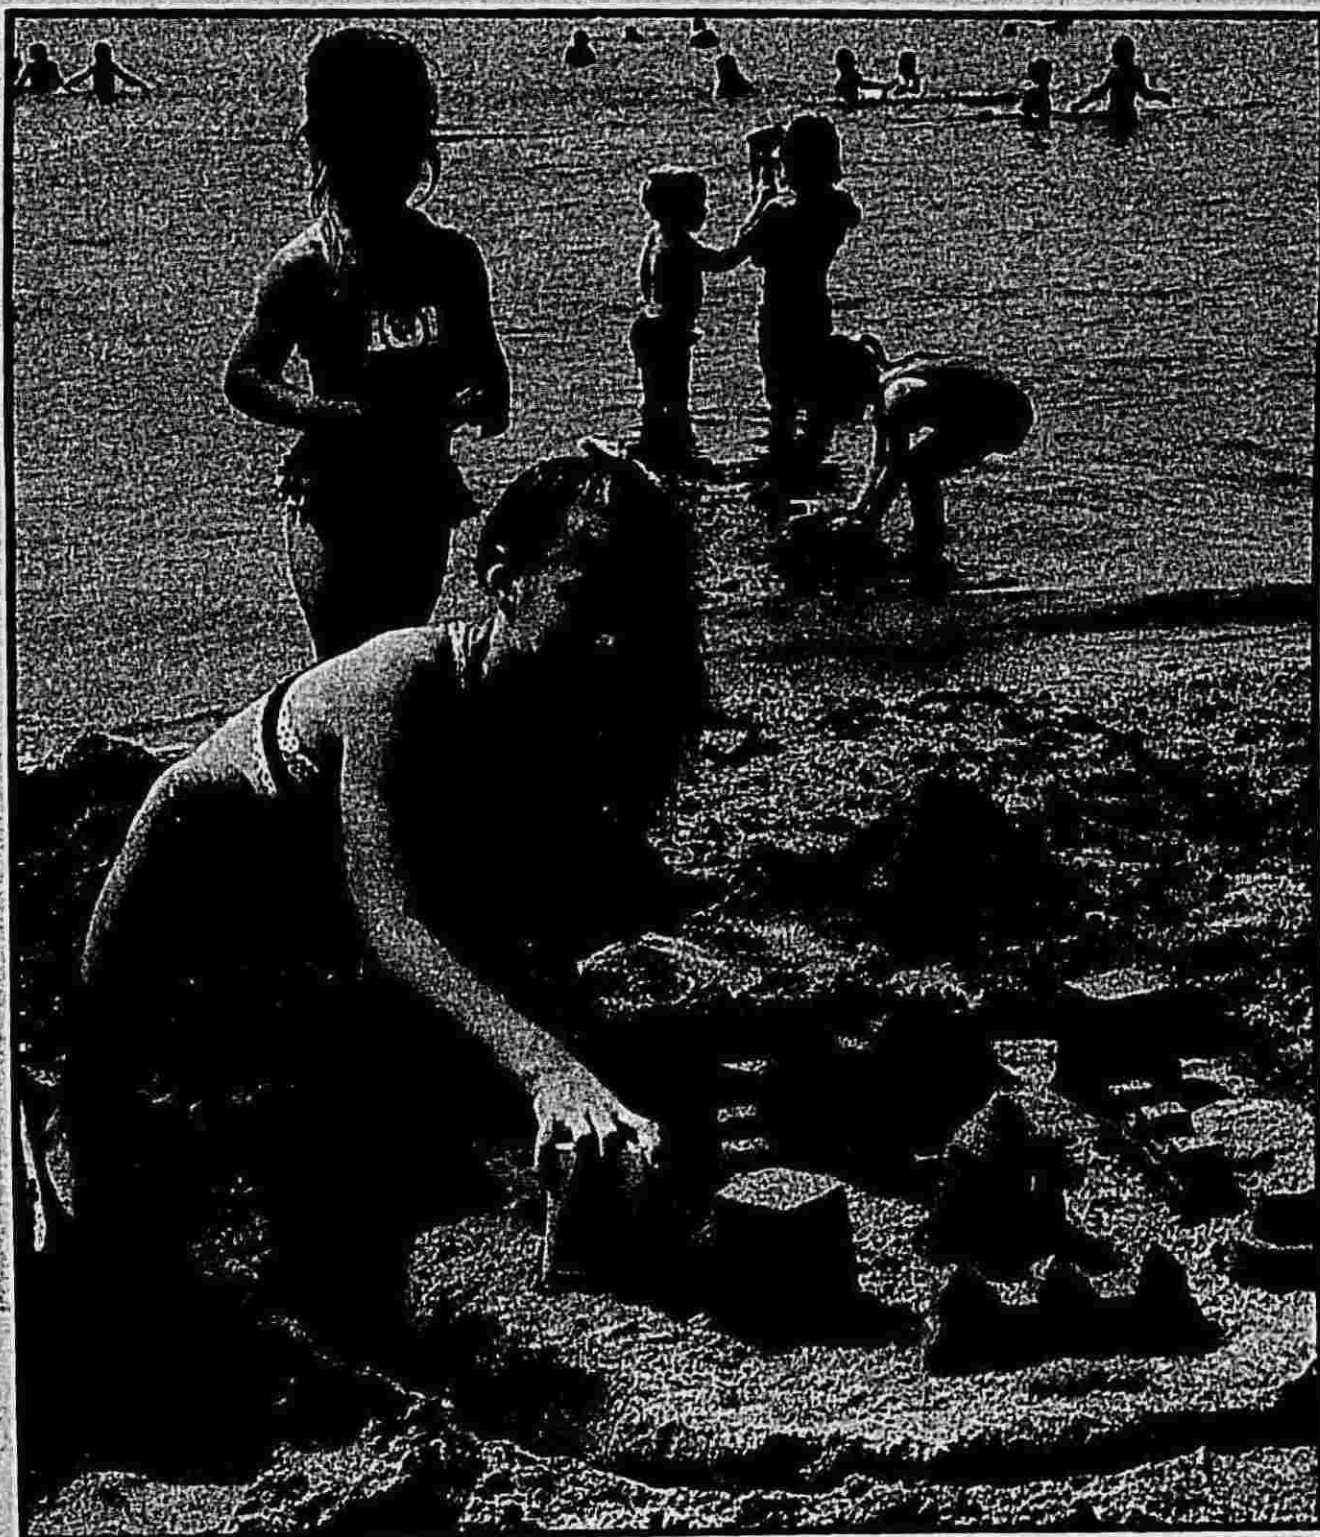

The Antioch Police Department, in a effort to ensure a safe downtown area for all, has begun a crackdown on reckless bicycle riding and instituted a massive bike registration campaign for all residents who own bicycles.

"We want the kids to have fun, but we also want them to be safe," said Antioch Police Lt. Charles Watkins of the newly enforced ordinance. "We have just had a lot of complaints about the kids riding their bikes in the downtown area. Something had to be done."

The no-riding zone includes Main Street from Depot Street to Lake Street and on (Continued on Page 7)

Lake Villa man killed, four injured in weekend crashes

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

The death of a Lake Villa man and four serious injuries were the result of two separate head-on crashes in the northern Lake County area as summer accidents begin to mount as Labor Day approaches.

The most serious of the two crashes, both on Aug. 9, occurred near Lindenhurst on Rte. 132 and Rte. 45 at 2:30 a.m. when a pick-up truck struck a car head-on at 55 m.p.h.

Killed was Michael Nicholls, 36, who was pronounced dead at the scene after he was pinned inside his 1987 Dodge Lancer, said Lake County Coroner Barbara Richardson.

Injured in the first accident was Wymond E. Thurmond Jr., 35, of Ingleside. Thurmond was rushed from the scene to St. Therese Medical Center and then air-lifted to Milwaukee County Medical Complex where he was in critical condition as of press time.

Lake County Sheriff Accident Investigator Phil Scarlette said Thurmond could not be identified initially by emergency personnel due to the fact that he did not have identification on him at the scene and additional confusion mounted when it was discovered that he had several aliases.

Scarlette said that alcohol was a contributing factor to the accident, police reports claim that Thurmond was at twice the legal limit, .10, of investigation, when the accident occurred, and that his investigation will be conducted as if it was a reckless vehicular homicide.

"Let's just say that there could be charges filed," said Scarlette.

In the second accident, which occurred at 10:30 p.m. on Rte. 173 west of Antioch, three people were injured, including a pregnant woman, as two cars collided head-on.

Kids weary as police curb bike riding

ANTIOCH—The Antioch Police Department, in a effort to ensure a safe downtown area for all, has begun a crackdown on reckless bicycle riding and instituted a massive bike registration campaign for all residents who own bicycles. "We want the kids to have fun, but we also want them to be safe," said Antioch Police Lt. Charles Watkins of the newly enforced ordinance. According to Watkins, the ordinance could bring a $75 ticket and a 30-day confiscation of their bike if ticketed by police. "We're not giving any tickets yet, but if we get the same person twice, we will," said Watkins. Watkins said more than 80 bicyclists have received warnings so far and the list grows as the bike traffic in the downtown area trickles to almost nothing. "It is amazing how fast the word got out that we are serious about enforcing the no-ride zone," said Watkins. "Now you can hardly find a rider anywhere near the municipal lot or the downtown business district."

Workers criticize asbestos removal

GRAYSLAKE—Charges of "cover-up" filled the sticky mid-August air as Grayslake District 46 custodians told board members what they thought of how asbestos was removed at Woodview Elementary and the Junior High School. Eight of the 10 district custodians appeared at Monday's board meeting, giving the board two separate documents. Board members promised to look into the matter as Dave Duffy, superintendent, said the matters are for executive session material.

Fundraiser features cars, pyramid house

GURNEE—Antiques of a different color will take the center stage as Our Lady of the Humility Church hosts a "Crusin' The Nile" event Aug. 15 and 16. "We have one big fund-raiser a year. We had Las Vegas Nights, but we were looking for something different," Jane Shafer, organizer, said. Classic cars will be featured as well as the Pyramid House, located off Dilley's Road.

Changes underway at Village Hall

FOX LAKE — "User friendly" is the catch-phrase that most accurately describes the new philosophy being generated at the Fox Lake Village Hall. First of all, the hall is currently undergoing a front-door facelift, which will put the building in compliance with Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) mandates and augment security. The second part of the plan is to create office space in the hall for all village department heads. Currently, residents often must visit more than one location to have a permit completely validated.

Lindenfest set for this weekend

LINDENHURST—Lindenfest, the village's main annual celebration, has shaped up to be one the premiere area attractions for the summer and will have plenty of entertainment and fun for everyone. The four-day festival, which will run Aug 13 through 16, will feature food and business booths, a carnival and free entertainment.

Yost to be honored for saving a boy

WAUCONDA — Officer Mike Yost will be honored by the village of Wauconda and the Wauconda Fire Department for saving a 5-year-old boy's life. Erich Wain, a Wauconda resident, was playing in the backyard waiting for his mother to pick him up from the baby-sitter's house when he apparently fell into the swimming pool. When Officer Yost arrived, the boy's mother had pulled Erich from the water. Erich was turning blue and had no pulse. Yost and an unknown bystander, believed to be a neighbor, performed cardiopulmonary resuscitation on the boy and within minutes, he began breathing. Yost will be presented with a plaque from the Fire Department for his actions and he will be awarded by the Village Board on Tuesday, Aug. 18, the next scheduled Village Board meeting.

Chapin in running for teaching honor

GURNEE—A Warren Township High School teacher is in the running for the state's Teacher of the Year honors. Bill Chapin, a 13-year teaching veteran of the Gurnee high school, will vie with 11 others for the honor given by the State Board of Education. One of the finalists will be selected at a state convention in Decatur this October.

Fund established for second-grader

INGLESIDE — Julie Lynn Johnson is a fighter. Rocked by a life-threatening blow in an early round of her life, she's back on her feet and working out on the path to recovery. On April 6, doctors discovered that the 7-year-old Julie was suffering from a malignant brain tumor. Three days later, surgeons at Loyola University Medical Center were able to remove 95 percent of the tumor. Despite the recent operation and ongoing radiation treatments, Julie was back with her first-grade classmates at Gavin Central by the end of April. The Julie Lynn Johnson Fund has been established at Fox Lake State Bank, 55 E. Grand Ave. Anyone wishing to help the Johnsons should send a contribution in care of Elaine Spangenberg at the bank.

Light summer specials a hit at Country Squire

You can still "lighten up" for summer with the special menu at The Country Squire, routes 120 and 45 in Grayslake.

A full-course luncheon special for just $6.95 is available between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday. The luncheon specials include an appetizer, salad, potato or vegetable, entree, dessert and beverage. The entree choices change daily.

"Veal, chicken, fish — all in light sauces — everything is special for summer," said Bill Govas, who co-owns The Country Squire with his wife, Kris. "It works out very well, and the people really like it."

If you don't feel up to taking on the light-yet-sumptuous lunch, The Country Squire offers an even lighter lunch menu, which includes soup-and-sandwich specials for as little as $4.50. Complete-meal salads are also lunchtime pleasers.

Another favorite is the early evening dinner special, which runs from 3 to 6 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. A complete seven-course dinner starts at just $7.95.

And don't forget to put The Country Squire's Sunday champagne brunch on your list of things to do. The brunch starts at $7.95 and is available from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

All of this comes amid the stately surroundings of the Sears Mansion, but don't be intimidated by the elegance. While the Country Squire can be just as formal as you want it for special occasions, the everyday emphasis is on a casual atmosphere and great food at reasonable prices.

The Country Squire provides for those special occasions in its plush banquet rooms. Any gathering from 10 to 400 people can be accommodated. The Country Squire has all the right moves for business gatherings, political parties, family occasions — you name it.

Outdoor weddings and other functions on the beautiful estate are popular events, and it's no wonder. A new garden area has been added to the already gorgeous setting, and benches and tables await your after-dinner relaxation.

"The garden is beautiful — all the flowers are blooming," Bill said. "Every day we do something to improve."

Becker named Lakeland's new managing editor

William H. Schroeder, publisher and president of Lakeland Newspapers, named Daniel M. Becker managing editor, Thursday, Aug. 6. A long-time Lake County resident, Becker, 27, looks forward to the challenges of the position.

"I've seen a lot of positive changes at Lakeland Newspapers during the past few years, and I've got a tough act to follow," noted Becker.

"Lakeland has progressive newspapers that cater to the local appeal. I plan to continue the tradition of bringing strong, local news coverage to the community."

Becker, a University of Wisconsin - Eau Claire graduate, recently received an education degree from Lake Forest College.

"I believe education is one of the most important local and national issues there is, and I plan to use the new degree to boost Lakeland's education coverage," Becker said.

No stranger to politics, Becker has had his share of county and local board meetings. "I've never added the number of meetings I've attended, but it must be somewhere around 500."

Becker, a native of Deerfield, came to Lakeland from Newsmedia Corporation, Mendota, where he gathered five Northern Illinois Newspaper Association Awards during his first year.

"They brought me in to restructure the paper. The greatest challenge was redesigning it. One year later, we walked away with first place awards for layout and design," Becker grinned.

Becker attributes most of the success to the people with whom he worked. "That's why I'm so excited about Lakeland Newspapers. Everyone from production and circulation to advertising and editorial is extremely talented. I think this paper is going to turn some heads in the next year."

Becker began his career in Lake Zurich, working for the Lake Zurich Enterprise and Vernon Crier.

Becker currently lives in Round Lake Beach with his wife and three children.

Voter registration up at county fair

Despite the decreased attendance at the Lake County Fair this year, political officials report a 20 percent increase at the voter registration booth.

According to Lake County Clerk Linda Ianuzi Hess, more than 750 people stopped at the booth and registered to vote during the five-day fair.

"That number could have been higher, but many people don't bring identification with them," Hess noted.

Residents who need to register for the November election should do so before Oct. 5. For more information about voter registration, 360-6628.

Pace lowers ticket prices, adds surcharge

Pace, the suburban bus service, will implement the CTA's three-month fare demonstration, which reduces pass prices, but add a surcharge, beginning Sunday, Aug. 20.

The Pace Board concluded at a recent meeting to proceed with the CTA's fare demonstration to keep fares "coordinated and avoid any confusion among the riders and employees of the two transit agencies."

Beginning September, the cost of a Pace monthly pass will be reduced from $60 to $45, and the weekly pass will decrease from $15 to $12. However, a 25-cent surcharge will be required on every trip when using either of the two passes. All other conditions and restrictions on these passes will remain the same.

The fare changes includes only the weekly and monthly passes. Passengers who use the monthly or weekly pass for travel on Pace local routes, where the fare is 85 cents for a one-way trip, and those using the Link-Up Ticket, which can only be purchased with a monthly Metra ticket, will not be surcharged.

The reduced monthly pass will remain $30 and also will not be surcharged. All other Pace fixed-route fares, tickets and transfer costs will remain the same.

According to Pace, the change in the cost of the passes is temporary.

Parenting program slated for Sept. 2

Lake County's Tri-Agency Network of family service agencies is looking for families to participate in a family "Nurturing Program" workshop, beginning Sept. 2 at St. James Lutheran Church, Waukegan.

The workshop will meet from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Wednesday evenings through Dec. 16.

This parenting program differs from other parenting programs in that it works with both parents and children, and is designed to build understanding among all family members, increase family togetherness, develop positive self-esteem and improve family communication.

Families interested in participating in the program should call Family Life Education Coordinator Pam Bush at 367-5991. The workshop is offered on a sliding fee scale.

Dad guessed his chest pain was indigestion. He was wrong.

Dad didn't want to worry us.

However, when his chest pains worsened, the paramedics took him straight to Victory Memorial Hospital's Emergency Department. We chose Victory because Dad's physician had told us about their special affiliation with St. Luke's Medical Center in Milwaukee, a recognized leader in cardiac care.

At Victory, the physicians and nurses are experienced in handling cardiac emergencies. Several of the emergency rooms are devoted exclusively to cardiac cases and have special monitoring equipment. The doctors there can administer TPA, a miraculous drug that dissolves blood clots and greatly increases chances of survival.

Dad needed a cardiac catheterization, and the Victory nurses and technicians explained everything to us in terms we could understand. A board-certified physician performed the procedure. Dad was in the hospital a few days for observation and really praised the care he received.

Now he's feeling great, and our family doctor sent him to the Cardiac Rehabilitation program at Victory to help him stay that way.

For comprehensive cardiac treatment, our choice will always be Victory.

For your FREE heart risk emergency card, call 1-800-THE CHOICE (1-800-843-2464), 9am-5pm, Monday-Friday.

A Total Quality Management Organization

Land agreement will maintain open space

A formal agreement designed to protect and maintain natural open spaces has been reached between the developers of Heron Harbor and Land Conservancy of Lake County, a non-profit agency.

Heron Harbor, a new residential community within the Chain O' Lakes Conservation Area, will have a 10-foot easement between home owners' properties and the shoreline of a private lake. In addition, Land Conservancy will have authority to manage open spaces during the first development phase.

The contract marks the first time a Chicago-area developer has worked hand-in-hand with a special interest group on a conservation program at a residential project.

Opened last summer, Heron Harbor eventually will consist of 450 single-family homes, a proposed marina fronting Lake Marie, a clubhouse and tennis courts.

Carroll Schall, Land Conservancy secretary, said the Heron Harbor agreement is the organization's first conservation program involving a property easement. Since its foundation four years ago, the group has granted ownership and management rights to several parcels throughout the county.

Schall said members of the Land Conservancy, which is comprised of 40 individuals interested in the preserving the natural resources in Lake County, will make periodic inspections of the open spaces at Heron Harbor and schedule necessary maintenance. Maintenance work will be done by Land Conservancy volunteers.

"One of our main objectives is to keep the nuisance plants, such as the buckhorn and slippery elm, from crowding out the desirable plants," said Schall. "Later in the year, we may have a controlled burn to help reduce native trees and grasses."

The Heron Harbor sales center is open daily from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Call 395-5858 for more information.

Crackdown

Lake and Orchard streets from Main to Hillside Avenue. "People are supposed to walk their bikes through this area," said Watkins.

According to Watkins, the ordinance could bring a $75 ticket and a 30-day confiscation of their bike if ticketed by police.

"We're not giving any tickets yet, but if we get the same person twice, we will," said Watkins. Watkins said more than 80 bicyclists have received warnings so far and the list grows as the bike traffic in the downtown area trickles to almost nothing.

"It is amazing how fast the word got out that we are serious about enforcing the no-ride zone," said Watkins. "Now you can hardly find a rider anywhere near the municipal lot or the downtown business district."

According to Watkins, the police are also using the crackdown as a way to get village residents to register their bicycles in an effort to slow the increasing number of bike thefts in the village.

"Whenever we stop a rider, we check the serial number on the bike to see if its is registered," said Watkins. "If not, then we take the bike and the child to the police station and have them register it."

Watkins, who would like to see all of the bikes in the village registered, said the police department has to auction off more than 100 bikes a year because the owners of the stolen bikes cannot be found when they are recovered.

"Registration will help that person get their bike back," said Watkins, who believes some 80 bikes have been reported stolen this year.

Most of the parents, who have come down to the station to pick up their kids, have been very supportive of the program, according to Watkins.

"Once they come down here and we explain to them what we are doing, they are supportive," said Watkins.

The Solid Waste Agency of Lake County approved the formation of five advisory committees to assist in the implementation of the Solid Waste Management Plan for Lake County.

The five committees, Waste Reduction, Recycling and Landscape Waste Management, Waste Disposal, Licensing and Flow Control and Toxicity/Hazardous Waste Management, are anticipated to be comprised of SWALCO members, business and industry representatives, technically knowledgeable individuals and interested citizens. The SWALCO Board hopes to fill the committee positions

"Here is an excellent opportunity for County residents to get involved in the development of programs and facilities that will manage Lake County's solid waste into the next century," said SWALCO Board Chairman Bob Depke.

Applications for committee membership are available by SWALCO or by calling your municipal government, Township or County Board offices. Applications can also be obtained by calling SWALCO at 360-7318 or 336-9340.

Lizard breaks promise, answers the call

Commentary

Over the past several weeks "Hometown Goodies" has been on the chopping block in Lakeland's new "Lip Service" column. As I read over the comments (both good and bad), I made myself a solemn promise not to address the matter in any way, shape or form—so be it for solemn promises.

My resolve to stay out of the controversy fell to the wayside after I read the comments from the caller from California. Something about seeing the issue responded to from such a distant state has now made me spring to action. Sit tight while I throw caution to the wind and discard my personal promise with the following commentary.

I want to thank the many kind and considerate people who called in comments on behalf of "Hometown Goodies." To me this is what it is all about and it is because of these nice people (and others like them) that I get so much personal enjoyment out of writing this column. To me it definitely makes for a much happier and healthier life to zero in on the positive rather than dwell on the negatives.

To the people who called in complaining and even threatening to cancel their subscriptions, etc., I also say thank you. It shows me you are obviously drawn to what I write enough to spend your time and energies in placing a phone call to "Lip Service." You are definitely entitled to your opinions and at least I now know (even more than ever) that "Hometown Goodies" is not received with apathy.

Furthermore, I think it would be an extremely pompous and unrealistic expectation on my part to assume that "Everyone" would actually enjoy reading "Hometown Goodies" in its entirety.

Now I'd like to address the dedicated subscriber from California. First of all, in my opinion, the fact that this person continues to subscribe to our Antioch paper from their new residence speaks well of our town and well for this paper. Also the caller was 100 percent right, my phone number is listed with the column each week. This is definitely an open invitation to anyone choosing (the magic word) to contact me with "tidbits."

As for ignoring callers—I would never and have never done so. Remember—"you can lead a horse to water, but you can't make him drink." The water in this case is "Hometown Goodies" for anyone that chooses to partake.

As I read over the comments from this California caller I was pulled in two directions. On one hand the caller seemed to be saying they enjoyed reading "Hometown Goodies." This message came across loud and clear in the closing comment of "Write on Liz!! On the word "spaghetti" (right Sylvia Vaughan?).

Ask Susan Anderson how The Lizard really spells "Horsdoevers" (orderbs). The list goes on. While I do not profess to be a great journalist, an overly exciting person, nor a good speller, I do profess to have a good sense of humor and a tainly been contacted by an awful lot of very nice people over the past 3 1/2 years.

So now I've heard from California—I'll be waiting to hear from the other 49 states!! Maybe someone in Alaska enjoys reading "Hometown Goodies" as they snuggle in their igloo munching on whale blubber—one can always hope.

More history

As I have often reminded you, there is a lot of history in our town and in the towns surrounding Antioch. One of the organizations that helps preserve and exhibit the history in our local areas is the Lake County Museum Association, organized in 1971.

This organization serves as a community support group for the Lake County Museum in Wauconda. The privately owned Lake County Museum began in 1957 by Robert Vogel and Lawrence Qualman and was located in Wadsworth. In 1965 the collections were purchased by Lake County and over the past 27 years the Museum has grown to be one of the most respected local historical museums in the Midwest. The museum now accommodates over 17,000 visitors annually and handles over 2,000 research requests.

On Saturday, Aug. 15,

the museum will be hosting a fundraiser tour of the historic Lehmann Estate located in Lake Villa from 1 to 6 p.m. Take this rare opportunity to visit the beautiful Lehmann Mansion with property manager Robert Frank. Also you will have an opportunity to meet the members of the Association Board and Museum staff and also enjoy light refreshments.

Tickets are available at the Lake County Museum located off of Rte. 176 at the Lakewood Forest Preserve, 27277 Forest Preserve Drive in Wauconda. The phone number to call is (708)526-7878. The cost of the Lehmann tour is only $10 per person.

Future museum activities include—The Third Annual Civil War Days on September 12 and 13 and the Lake County Astronomical Society "Star Watch" at 7 p.m. on October 1—(rain date is October 3).

Belated birthday

Little Katie Harti turned eight years old on Friday, July 31. Since I was not informed of her special day till after the fact, I would now like to extend her a happy birthday wish from Lizard and readers.

Thank you

Thanks Lakeland for your latest show of support on my behalf.

other hand, he/she did not seem to be impressed with my subject matter, my so called literary style and was definitely not impressed with my spelling ability (so what is new, either am I). I enjoyed a good hearty laugh when the caller pointed out my misspelling of the word "Virile"—instead I had written "Viral." Does close count?? I simply must get in the habit of pulling out that old high school Webster. I'll say this for myself, I misspell words with more "confidence" than anyone I know. I do take out the dictionary when I "realize" I do not know how to spell a particular word. The problem is I don't always realize it at the time. Ask Linda Boerman, she still harasses me about the time I misspelled "recipe" in typing up a cookbook for PTO—not to mention the lot of guts.

I laughed till my sides ached over the following comment—quote "in my defense I do invite readers to call me with their 'tidbits', and obviously nobody does." Talk about giving an almost compliment and then pulling the rug out from under a person, this says it all!! The guts comes into view by daring to enter homes each week with my simple stories, bad grammar and misspelling. Keep reading people, if even only to criticize. For those who actually enjoy my rabblings and respond with occasional "tidbits," I am grateful. I've said it in the past and I'll say it one more time—this is your column not mine and it is only as good as the nice people who take time to call. In my opinion it appears to be pretty good, because I know I have cer-

Dad joins in celebration as Kratz wins eighth title

Mike Frost of Zion captured his third 25-lap sprint car main of the season in a hotly contested feature event on Saturday, Aug. 8 at Toft Auto Racing's Wilmot Speedway in Wilmot, Wis. Pointleader Lenny Ostrowski, Jr. of North Cape won his first 20-lap modified main since May and his first race since June 21 when he took a heat victory. Pointleader Dennis Kratz of Antioch won his ninth sportsman feature and 21st checkered flag of the year.

The sprint main got off to a rocky start when Al Schmidt had a left-rear wheel come off at the start going down the front straightaway. Schmidt gathered the car back up and nursed it in where the crew put a new tire and wheel on. On the next start attempt, several cars came together coming out of turn four with Dave Hanna of Grayslake, who was substitute driving for Bob Robel in the No. 3R, going over a wheel and flipping several times down the front straightaway. Hanna was not injured, but out for the night. Joe Kristan took the lead on the third green and was in front when the caution appeared again on lap two when Schmidt looped in turn one. On the next restart, Frank Filsko was battling Kristan for the lead when the two came together in turn four with Kristan ending up spinning. Both competitors were sent to the rear of the field on the restart with Frost inheriting the lead. On lap three, another amber flew as Gib Wiser and Donald Dodd came together in turn four with both cars ending up stopping on the track down the backstretch. On the restart it was the trio of Frost, fast qualifier Dale Peterson and Larry Hillerud hooking up in a three-way, and sometimes three-wide wing to wing battle for top spot. A final yellow at the halfway point for a spun car closed the field with Frost able to pull away in his G&G Trucking/Wisecup Siding/Outhouse Engineering coilover machine enroute to his third main event of the season at Wilmot and fourth overall. Hillerud, Peterson, Joe Roe and pointleader Dave Moulis came across in the top five.

The sportsman main was yellow-filled four cautions, a couple of which were lengthy, resulting in the race being shortened by the time-limit. Brian Ulrich led in the early going with a caution coming on lap four for a spun car. On the restart, Ulrich had his hands full with Rob Olson going to the high side down the front straightaway. A two-car tangle in turn two on lap seven brought out the yellow with Ulrich pitting during the delay, turning the lead over to Olson. On lap eight, Kratz shot his Dan Hansen Alignment/Joliet Valves/Sinclair Racing Engine Assembly Ford Thunderbird to the inside down the front straightaway and into the lead. Another yellow came on lap 12 when Mark Ring slammed the front straightaway wall head-on, but was not injured. Kratz continued at the point until a final yellow came out when Olson looped in turn one and could not get off the track. Kratz brought his mount, which is still struggling with overheating problems as it did the week before, into the victory lane where he was joined by his father, Ken Kratz, for the photo with the engine still running. Jay Crichton, back after a month off due to a wrist injury, was second, Scott Kuxhouse third, Dave Holden fourth and Jukka Myllymaki fifth.

Wilmot Speedway will host The Hot Rod Shop of Wadsworth Hall of Fame Night on Saturday, Aug. 15, recognizing former competitors from "the old track" which was located just west of Wilmot High School from 1953 to 1972. Over 50 invitations have been sent out to Wilmot Legends. Persons who know of someone who competed and are not sure if they received an invite should contact Toft Auto Racing at (708)395-7353 or (708)395-0500 as soon as possible. On the Aug. 15 program will be sprints, modifieds, sportsman and dwarf race cars with the gates opening at 5 p.m., sprint time trials at 6:15 p.m. and the first race at 6:45 p.m.

Not a long wait

How about a positive instead of a negative? I had to go in today to renew my driver's license. And I tell you, I expected to be there a while. I had a good breakfast and expected to eat a very light lunch. When I got over there, it went quick. It really surprised me. The only negative was my photograph and that was because it looked exactly like me. The people are great over there.

A national language

In rebuttal to all the white people and all of the Hispanic people in Round Lake Park and Heights and Beach and the Round Lake people, our attitudes are that the Hispanics should learn to speak more English so that us white people would not think that they are belittling us. Thank you.

The conspiracy of high prices

In Antioch everything is too damn high, the rent, the food prices, taxes, and everything. They have no respect for elderly people and they are out to drain our social security checks. I would like to get the message out to stop raising taxes in this town. We can't afford it anymore. Thank you.

Working hard, honest

I am from Wauconda township. I used to believe that you go to work and try to earn an honest living and do a good job for your employer. My husband was the manager of a store, and he took care of the money and had to deal with the customers every day and gave it 110 percent. He was really good to his boss, and tried to make an honest living. One day, one of the people in the store attacked him. Legally, we can't do anything about it. They feel that it is too small of an issue and something between two people who didn't like each other very much. Nobody believes my husband, because there was only himself and a few others around and they don't want to jeopardize their positions and tell what really happened. I love my husband very much and I know that he would never attack anybody. He was not at fault. He had to physically defend himself. My husband did not deserve the way he was treated. Well, thanks.

Communication and love

I am only 26-years-old and I have only been married for about eight months and I would just like to say that I think that it is a shame that people are getting divorced so often. My husband and I talk about everything. In the eight months that we have been married, we have had a lot of big problems. We had bugs in our first apartment. We have had in-law problems. My mother-in-law did not like me at first. And we had financial problems. We confront everything together and we talk about everything. We are very honest. I love him very much and I hope that he knows that. I also trust him and he is my best friend. I guess if more people had that outlook, and were willing to look at their problems, we wouldn't have such a high divorce rate. Thanks.

Drinking dangerous for peers

Hi, I am a 16-year-old Wauconda resident. It really upsets me to see so much drinking going on every night. I mean, all of my friends get drunk a lot and they are still in high school. It really upsets me so much. I go to parties and I see people going home drunk and they are really lucky that they are not dead. I wish that there were more that the police could do.

Where is my call?

Yes, I am sounding off about the Lipservice. I had put an answer in about another call that had been printed. I just want to know why it did not make it in the paper. Due to the large amount of individuals calling the Lipservice number throughout the week and the limited space within the paper allotted for the column, not all calls will appear in that week's paper. Look for your response in future editions. Thank you.

Skateboards are safe

Hi, I am from Lake Villa. In response to this "Bike safety non-existent" letter, I can't believe this. I can understand why people wouldn't like bikes, they cause accidents. But, skateboards? The people who use skateboards are not out there to hurt anyone. They are not trying to be a big public menace, but that is the way the people make them out to be. You should respect everyone.

Parking spots are labeled

I am sick and tired of people who are not handicapped parking in the handicapped zones. I think that this should not be accepted. I am sick of them parking in the spots when they have no business doing so. Why are they not enforcing the $50 fines? Thank you.

Double standards

Shed no tears for Dr. Steven Potsic, who was forced to resign as executive director of the Lake County Health Dept. Dr. Potsic, the county's highest paid employee, is getting a generous severance and officially he is leaving in "good standing," which means that the powers to be are paying him well to get out of town.

To say that Potsic during his 17 year tenure was controversial is an understatement. He was revered and despised both at the same time. Supporters viewed the Oak Park native and Vernon Hills resident as a courageous professional dedicated to safeguarding public health. Detractors viewed Dr. Potsic as an abrasive, aloof, overly zealous despot abusing power to enforce obscure and unworkable regulations.

Dr. Potsic was a complex person handling a difficult job in a county reeling from change. In the whole, though Dr. Potsic didn't change in the approach to his job. The politics changed and that was his undoing when pro-development forces on the County Board captured the leadership of county government.

Despite his abrasive style and aggressiveness, particularly in environmental matters, Dr. Potsic didn't deserve to be fired. He was a victim of the double standard being employed by county leaders. While Dr. Potsic was put on the hot seat, another controversial department head, County Building Officer Robert Streicher, remains untouchable.

The adjective and attitudes regarding Potsic and Streicher are totally interchangeable. Only one man stays and the other man goes. That's a double standard in our book. Jerry Soesby, the ousted Forest Preserve Dist. director, was also a victim of the double standard. Employing double standards might be fancy-stepping politics, but it makes for lousy public policy, the kind of policy that is incompatible with good government.

Dilemma at CLC

As the annual back-to-school pace begins to quicken, College of Lake County officials are faced with a frustrating, even maddening, dilemma. Where to put all the students entering CLC for the fall term?

Fifteen thousand students are expected to be enrolled. Dr. Daniel LaVista, president of the 25-year-old institution, says every nook and cranny at the central Grayslake campus and auxiliary instructional centers at Waukegan and Highland Park will be utilized.

What's happening is that the county's highly regarded and well respected community college is becoming a victim of its own success. CLC has become an outstanding school, a great place to get a start for a four-year education and an outstanding facility offering a wide-variety of career enhancing courses. Growth is out-pacing resources.

College trustees and LaVista and his staff haven't been caught napping by the burgeoning enrollment. They have the answers, but their hands are tied by the complex reasons why higher education is running into a financial brickwall these days. So many of the things they want to develop are "on hold" for lack of funds, like a planned $11.5 million classroom building at the main campus, an arts and theater center that is especially near and dear to LaVista's heart and a south county campus that will provide space for Lake County's most rapidly growing area.

One response to financial woes of higher education that could provide CLC with additional funding is private giving. The college has some experience through its CLC Foundation with handling gifts. This avenue of funding deserves further exploration. Lake County is the home of many generous citizens, some of whom likely would be willing to support worthwhile CLC projects, specifically the construction of the badly needed arts and theater center.

All the answers to CLC's financial needs aren't to be found in the private sector, but certainly some of them are. It's worth a try.

Charity resources spread pretty thin

by KATHLEEN MCGOWAN

Catholic Charities of Lake County, with offices in Waukegan, Round Lake, and Highland Park, served over 26,000 persons last year in Lake County.

Services ranged from maternity counseling, to information and referral for seniors, to emergency case management including emergency shelter, food, rent and utility assistance, to provision of foster care services, to counseling through Holbrook Center in Mundelein, to elder abuse investigation. Services were provided to people of all racial, ethnic, religious and socio-economic backgrounds.

Catholic Charities works with a variety of Lake County agencies and resources to provide clients with the myriad services they need. Sometimes, Catholic Charities and other agencies in the country may not have the resources to provide the needed service.

For example, affordable housing for persons on public aid or in minimum wage jobs is lacking. Funds are limited so emergency assistance also is deficient in some funds, which provided financial assistance for rent, mortgage payments, utilities and phone on a one-time basis, were drastically cut this year in Lake County. The needs of the homeless grow each year as witnessed by the expansion of the PADS program and Catholic Charities own emergency shelter program.

While providing these Catholic Charities services, there may be times, unfortunately, when Catholic Charities are unable to help individuals or families. This may be because of our own restricted funds, government regulations, or an assessment done which indicates that the person seeking our help does not meet criteria established. Perhaps this is what happened with the caller who contacted Lakeland Newspaper's Lipservice column several weeks ago.

It is always difficult to say no to individuals or families, especially when their own experience says to them that they need our help. As professionals, it is not our intent or practice to turn someone away with a cold rude, or demeaning manner. We apologize if this was the caller's perception.

Catholic Charities provides assistance and care to those who need it. We are a large social service provider. In the process of attempting to meet the needs of so many people with such limited resources, we may err.

Stand up for Quayle

Editor:

I'm not saying who I'm voting for. Maybe I haven't made up my mind. But I am disgusted at the media bashing of Vice President Dan Quayle. The man has to have a pretty strong character to stand up to the "witch hunt" and still maintain dignity with a smile. I watched him on a talk show and then watched the evening news twist his words.

I've read a couple of good speeches he has written and watched the media take little parts and blow them totally out of context. My question is: Does the network news believe we are ignorant and we believe all the news they are trying to create? Why don't they report the facts and let us as intelligent Americans make up our own minds about people and issues? If they want to state an opinion do what the rest of us do and write the opinion section of the paper.

I believe Vice President Quayle is getting bad press for no reason. The man is not wishy-washy. He stands up for the family and moral values. Is that a media crime? I say we can make up our own minds who to vote for, but lay off Vice President Quayle.

Next Schaumburg

Editor:

I have been living in the Grayslake area for many years now, in fact, I moved up here from Schaumburg. You may ask, why? Well I'll be happy to inform you.

Schaumburg is now well known for its overdevelopment and increased population. There is not a single street that I could find that still had some trees and land, a simple pond or two, as well as the original inhabitants of the land: animals, lots and lots of them, squirrels, chipmunks, racoons, snakes, and even those poor helpless homeless strays, cats and dogs. No sir, couldn't find that land even if my life depended on it. I got so disgusted about that that I decided to move up north, where the land is found in great abundance. And that it was, so green, so full I could go anywhere and find myself driving along a long peaceful road with nothing but the blue sky and dark rich green trees following me to wherever it was that I was going.

Just so that I don't completely bore you, I'll just make my point.

Stop the overdevelopment now. Stop before you dig up every pound of virgin soil and regret it. Leave the town as it was, as it was built to be, simple caring friendly old town.

We don't want to live in Schaumburg. Give us back our home.

Lengthen class day

Editor:

Libertyville High School's Halls of Shame are now in place on the Brainerd Campus as a monument to the Libertyville High School Board's arrogance and contempt for the residents in the district.

Keeping a promise made before last spring's second referendum defeat for more money, Board President Ken Eichelberger has kept his pledge to "show the voters by placing mobile classrooms out where everyone can see them."

The people have overwhelmingly said "no" to the board with their referendum votes on two separate occasions—no addition, no more money and no more taxes. If the board is serious about solving any perceived space problem, let me offer two of many possible solutions.

Add one more hour to the class day, begin earlier, end later. This will add over 75 class rooms to the Libertyville High School campus with no additional cost or taxes. The school's 20 plus administrators (Continued on next page)

America test: Can we kick our tv habit?

by BILL SCHROEDER

Industry Week, a magazine serving industry and business, has two excellent columnists. One is my favorite economist, Dr. Michael Evans. The other is George Weimer, executive editor, who has a knack of putting a twist on everyday subjects that make them interesting as all get out.

In the current issue, Weimer writes about America's problem of watching too much television. But not in ho-hum fashion. Listen up. His views on a subject we've all had crammed down our throats for years are worth considering.

George doesn't take long getting to a sobering thought. Tv is as addictive, mind-altering and as dangerous as any illegal substance. Weimer gives it straight: "We have become the leading couch potato country and we need to face it."

Weimer feels that getting rid of television or at least minimizing the hours spent watching would be a great way to bring back family living and restore conversation. Family meals and family evenings were casualties of the Baby Boomer generation and have never been restored.

Like drugs, tv alters perceptions. It is addictive. Everything else becomes less important. Does this sound strangely like crack? Remember, we're talking about television. Fourth, tv destroys thinking and listening.

Phew! Weimer paints a troubled picture. Can we ever again live without game shows and CNN? he asks. What about the Super Bowl, the soaps, mindless sitcoms and late night talk shows? Can we sink any lower in the couch?

Weimer winds up his column about the nation's biggest drug with a request. Just for a day and a night, don't watch tv, he asks. "See if things are a little better or a little worse without it?"

I don't know about you, but Weimer has me thinking. I'm going to try his 24 hour test. Can we combat the "drug of choice of the vast majority of the American people?" Just say yes.

Second, the educational facilities planner has raised the question of the need for "automotive shop classes" in today's educational environment. Certainly, in the era of hi-tech automobile products, the cost of supporting such a vocational program is prohibitive. Conversion of the auto shops would add four additional classrooms.

Wants fact over fiction

Editor:

Is an election coming up? The level of State Rep. John Matijevich's continuous harangue against Commonwealth Edison seems to have increased by a few decibels. That's OK, as long as he sticks to the facts. In his byline column July 31, unfortunately, Rep. Matijevich made four assertions that simply are not true.

First, he says Commonwealth Edison has "the highest rates in the country." Even the Citizens Utility Board has stopped making this false claim. A number of major cities, including New York, Philadelphia and San Francisco, have higher rates than the Chicago area.

Second, he says "we're already paying through a high rate base for the very jobs they (Edison) are cutting." This untrue statement is in reference to the company's recent announcement that it will reduce 1,250 jobs to help stem a seriously deteriorating financial condition. The Illinois Commerce Commission rate order under which we currently are serving customers provided a revenue allowance based on significantly fewer employees than Edison now has.

Third, he says, "Edison is expected very soon to request from the ICC a higher rate increase." The rate case now before the Commission is on its second go-around, after being remanded by the Illinois Supreme Court. A decision is not expected until January 1993, after which more litigation no doubt will follow.

Finally, he says "we ratepayers pay for all of that hefty advertising by public utilities." In reality, Edison shareholders pay for the large majority of the company's advertising, more than 80 percent.

I am sure the good representative will continue to criticize us throughout the campaign. That is his right. We ask only that he base his criticisms on fact, not fiction.

Library cuts unfair

Editor:

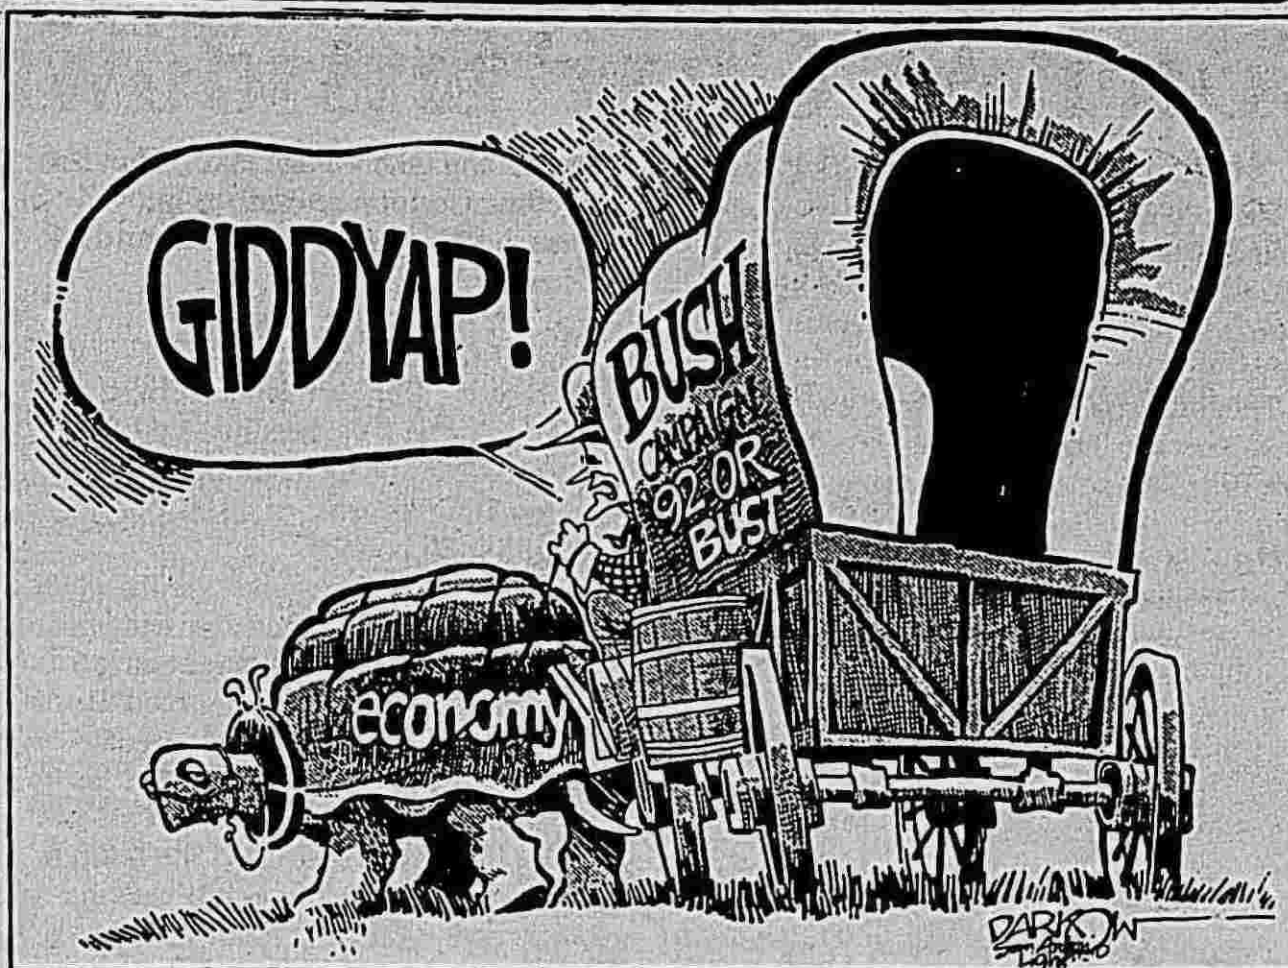

As an avocation, I am an active researcher and historian of black baseball. I use the regional library services out of my "home" library of Cook Memorial extensively.

If budget cuts are necessary during tough times, then I'm willing to go along with reasonable measures. But Sec. Ryan's Draconian proposals will most likely kill my chances of pursuing my work.

What particularly distresses me is that 81 percent of the budget reduction from the Secretary of State's huge empire are to come from library resources. I find it hard to believe that this couldn't be spread around a bit more equitably.

I'm hoping you'll be willing to call some librarians in the area and write an editorial urging Sec. Ryan to alter his plan, which makes a mockery of this role as caretaker of the states library system.

Raftis a Depke clone

Editor:

I am selling my home in Wildwood where I have lived for 40 years and moving to an apartment in Grayslake. I Can't afford to pay the property taxes anymore on a fixed income. Another reason is I am tired of Depke-style politics, as are many of my neighbors.

I feel the reason Mr. Depke re-districted himself out of Wildwood is that too many of the long-time Warren Township residents here know him only too well. He did poorly in these Wildwood precincts in the last County Board election. Hopefully the new residents will have had an insight as to what Mr. Depke really is, self-serving! Warren Township can ill afford his kind of "good-ole-boy" style rule anymore.

My concern is the new County Board District 11 encompasses my new place of residence, Grayslake, and we are being threatened with yet the same Depke-style rule. Namely, Dick Raftis. It's no secret here in Wildwood that Raftis is a protégé of Depke's and does what Depke wants. This is why Raftis does most of his campaigning in Grayslake where most people don't know him.

Grayslake voters have a chance to vote for their own hometown candidate in the November election—Gail Gloede is that candidate. I know Gail takes a special interest in her community by attending all the Grayslake Village Board meetings. In all the years I have lived in Wildwood, I don't believe Raftis has ever been a member of, or ever attended a HOW (Homeowner's of Wildwood) meeting except to promote his own candidacy. He's obviously not a man who cares about his community.

Scorned Char lets down her hair

SOMETHING FISHY

Hints of a new Forest Preserve scandal abound. No, it's not as serious as the one three years ago involving deer poaching by employees in the Ryerson Forest Preserve.

This one, too, involves the men in forest preserve brown. Supt. Dan Brouillard's name keeps coming up again.

His men were assigned to drain a pond at the Daniel Wright preserve. The better fish were to be transported to a new location.

When someone showed up unexpectedly they spotted the fish atop several ice chests. The implication is they were headed for a freezer, not another lake.

CHAR LETS IT OUT

Former County Board member Charlotte (Kiesgen) Thompson of Ingleside called last week. It was from downstate where she has a new life, new husband and a new red Corvette.

She unloaded. First, she told me about working hard 22 years for everything she had/has. Some of that time was with her Patsy Kline-like voice as a country western singer.

"I'm the one who had to endure three years of the other woman," she said about changing partners. "Everyone in Fox Lake knows." Former husband, Jack, has a cute companion named Kim.

As for the red Corvette, it was Char's "treat" to herself. It's a 1979 model she picked up from a striking Caterpillar Tractor employee earlier this year for $895. Jack has a 1984 Corvette, she said.

"I'm the scorned woman," Char said. "I just want the rest of the world to know."

TALL TURTLE TALE

"It must have been a slow news summer," said Island Lake Trustee Fred Bigham of newspaper clippings from around the country about a giant turtle that inhabits the village lake. They are from retirees or former residents in Florida, Arizona, California and elsewhere.

The big time came, though, with a story in a July issue of the tabloid Weekly World News. "Illinois town terrorized by man-eating turtle," the headline said. It went on to describe the sighting by an Arlington Heights artist of a six-foot turtle weighing 70 pounds.

The turtle story began last spring when a lakefront resident reported a missing pet dog. Someone suggested it might have been eaten by a turtle. One thing led to another. Public Works Director Neal DeYoung was asked to investigate. He set some hooks and came up with two angry snapping turtles that filled the bottom of garbage cans. But no Loch Ness monster.

A Crystal Lake radio station awarded a chocolate turtle to the winner of a Name the Turtle Contest. Mayor Charles Amrich picked the name: Cecil B. Turtle.

Still, no one has officially seen the real Cecil. Someone suggested he is hiding in a huge underground cavern opened when the lake was dredged three years ago. "Yes, we've all had a little fun out of it," Bigham said of the tall tale. "But we still need a turtle."

Caravan of travel trailers head towards Grayslake

Every August for the last eight years they've arrived. Majestic class A motor homes make their way into northern Lake County. A caravan of travel trailers, fifth wheels and fold down campers make its way through traffic heading toward Grayslake. Flashy conversion vans and mini motor homes are seen in large numbers heading for the Lake County Fairgrounds. And this year, August of 1992 will be no exception. For on the morning of Aug. 19, the sun will rise on opening day of the Ninth Annual RV & Van Show.

If one has ever thought about the good life of camping and traveling, this is the show to attend. Bus conversion, motor homes, vans, mini motor homes, travel trailers, fifth wheels, fold downs, Park models and truck campers will be there...washed, shiny and standing neatly at attention for all to see.

This is the largest RV show in Illinois, indoors or out! It's a must to attend for anyone even mildly interested in the RV lifestyle. And a "can't miss" if seriously shopping. This five day span in August from Aug. 19 to 23 may be the only opportunity for another year to side by side comparison shop so many vehicles so quickly and effortlessly.

Every dealer present has a trusted reputation in the RV business. Each display will be manned so one can get the information needed and get any questions answered. The dealers have made special arrangements to have appraisers present at the show all five days.

In some cases, factory reps will be on hand with additional product information. With so many dealers present offering every conceivable brand and style of RV, one could actually come to the show with their trade, make their best deal, drive in home in a new RV and be camping by the time the show closes on Sunday!

If one has had conversion fever, the Ninth Annual RV & Van Show has something special for them. Several truck and conversion van dealers will be there too. Shop brand after brand, model after model, dealer after dealer...inside, out of the weather and in one trip!

This year, there will be a limited number of sport boat dealers displaying. Perhaps even a snowmobile or two. This is really an adult toy show...so come out and enjoy yourselves. There's a friendly, carnival atmosphere in the air.

Top Hat Media Group will provide the background music and cover the Master of Ceremonies duties every day. There will be drawings for prizes on a daily basis, refreshments will be for sale, an arts and crafts show...even a square dance on Saturday night. Anyone wearing square dance attire on Saturday pays no admission. There are seminars planned for Friday and Saturday on Microwave Cooking, Motor home and Trailer Maintenance and others. And this year the show also features Park models for year around living or just summer fun.

Owning an RV is more than parking a piece of equipment in one's driveway and taking a once a year trip. It very quickly becomes a way of life. There are lasting friendships made, and many exciting miles of fun. Every trip, no matter how short, becomes becomes another page in the memory book. Families are particularly happy with the RV lifestyle because of the "quality time" it affords. The experience of traveling this beautiful country together can't be equaled. Don't let another summer go by without at least investigating an RV. Join the crowds at the Ninth Annual RV & Van Show Aug. 19 to 23.

Dates, times and particulars are: Aug. 19 to 23; Wednesday through Saturday 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., Sunday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; admission is $4 per person, children 12 and under are free, and a special senior citizen rate of $3 Wednesday through Friday. For camping and show information, call (708)623-3989. The show days phone is (708)223-3457.

Choosing right tow vehicle

If you're planning a trip using a trailer, proper selection of the vehicle to tow the travel trailer is extremely important.

Most vehicles can tow small, light-duty trailers, such as pop-up campers weighing as much as 1,000 to 2,000 pounds, without added factory-installed equipment. Medium-duty single-axle travel trailers with gross weights ranging up to 3,500 pounds, and heavy-duty, dual-axle and large, single-axle trailers weighing as much as 5,000 pounds can be towed by some large cars. Almost all compact and full-size light trucks also can tow trailers weighing as much as 5,000 pounds.

Some of these vehicles can tow trailers weighing slightly more than 5,000 pounds. In most instances, these vehicles need the factory-installed equipment specifically engineered to handle the conditions unique to trailer towing, whenever used with trailers weighing more than 2,000 pounds.

For larger trailers

weighing from 5,000 pounds up to 10,000 pounds with a full load, full-size trucks with optional equipment can meet the need.

Heavy-duty pickups that can handle the popular fifth wheel recreational trailers weighing as much as 12,500 pounds also are available.

Experts caution against underestimating the load a tow vehicle will be called upon to handle. It's a mistake to use only the "dry" weight of an empty trailer.

To this figure must be added the weight of food, dishes, cooking utensils, clothing, bedding, tools, hobby and outdoor equipment—everything that will be put into the trailer. Even water and propane add pounds.

The most accurate way to determine the trailer weight before deciding on a tow vehicle is to have the loaded trailer weighed on a commercial truck scale.

If this is not practical, the trailer's Gross Vehicle Weight Rating—or GVWR—can be used as a guide. This figure should approximate the maximum weight of a fully loaded trailer, based on the manufacturer's experience.

In addition, the weight of the occupants and luggage or cargo to be carried in the tow vehicle itself should be included when calculating the required capacity of the proposed tow vehicle. Like the trailer, everything in the tow vehicle adds to the weight of the load it must move.

Experts also stress the importance of having the required factory-installed equipment for satisfactory trailer towing.

Most manufacturers offer special equipment in optional trailer towing packages engineered to upgrade properly the vehicle to tow medium or heavy-duty trailers.

Often, a bigger optional engine and a geared-down axle also are required. Many of these special components would be prohibitively expensive, if not impossible, to add later to a standard car or truck.

Enjoy outdoor camping—prevent campground crime

Of all the wild critters there are to see and enjoy in America's great outdoors, there's one that no one wants to run across: the campground thief. But he's out there and there's a chance you'll meet up with him someday if you're a camper.

Cash and other valuables are more temptation than some dishonest individuals are able to stand. But following a few tips and taking advantage of some new technology can reduce your chances of becoming a victim.

Practice the following points and you'll stand a better chance of hanging on to what's yours:

• Boats: Remove fishing, skiing and other attractive equipment when leaving the boat unattended overnight or for extended periods during the day.

• Cars: Don't leave valuables such as purses, wallets and cameras lying on the seat or dashboard in open view when you leave your car for a hike or other time-consuming activity, even if the car is locked. Thieves now have very efficient tools for opening locked vehicle doors. Place the valuables in the glove box or trunk.

• When you leave your campsite unattended for a length of time, let the ranger or a trustworthy neighbor know so they can keep an eye on your property.

In addition, there is now available high-tech electronic security devices that "watch" your campsite or recreation vehicle while you're away or sleeping. They're portable solar/battery-powered infrared motion detectors that alert campers to the presence of intruders by sounding a beep-tone alarm when someone enters the monitored area.

Campground security, ultimately, is the responsibility of the camper, not the ranger. So whether you camp in a tent, a pop-up trailer or a first-class RV, following the above security tips will help ensure that all the memories you bring home from the woods are happy ones.

Bill Wrate shows his pet parakeet Henry some lovin' by giving him a kiss. Henry's favorite saying is, "whatcha doin'?" Bill has one other pet bird, Akali, which is Swahili for "wisdom." The bird imitates people, doors, and the telephone so well, the family has a hard time knowing it is the bird. Above, a Rosy Bourke poses for the camera. The bourke is a relatively new mutation of bourkes, as they are usually blue, according to Bill. At right, two Java Rice finches perch on a tree branch for a split second.

Bill Wrate: Bird of a different feather

According to the famous poet, Walt Whitman, "You must not know too much, or be too precise or scientific about birds . . . a certain free margin, and even vagueness—perhaps ignorance—helps your enjoyment of these things."

However, Whitman did not know Bill Wrate when he wrote the ode.

Bill Wrate of unincorporated Lake Villa specializes in breeding exotic birds, and it is that fervid interest in the various aviary species that puts the song in his heart.

"I was always interested in animals," Bill said. "After I bought a parakeet from a friend at a pet shop in Waukegan, I've been hooked ever since."

That was about 20 years ago, when Bill "housed" the birds outside and the sunshine and fresh air stimulated the birds to mate. About six years ago, Bill flew the coop to Lake Villa Township and now keeps the birds in his basement.

About 24 cages line the small, well-lit room, each cage numbered and color-coded based on the type of food needed for the birds. Different cages are used for specific reasons as well. Holding cages contain birds that will be bred at a later date. These cages allow the birds to get to "know" each other, until one bird starts dancing. Then they move to the breeding cages.

As an aviculturist, Bill tries to keep the breeding as pure as possible, which means not allowing brothers and sister to mate (although cousins can mate) and not allowing breeding outside of the species. So if one type of parrot is interested in another parrot, but they are not the same type of parrot species, they will not be bred.

One way of "keeping the strain pure,"

according to Bill, is by banding the birds when they are young with a closed, traceable leg-band. The birds are banded with a colored band representing the year and a number designated specifically for that bird. This helps breeders trace the parentage of birds and greatly reduces interbreeding.

Although Bill houses about 150 birds ranging from parrots and cockatiels to hookbills and lovebirds, the species he has few of, or a bird without a mate, he names.

Take Pierre and Petunia, Bill's "babies." Pierre and Petunia are two Plum-head Parakeets from India, named for the purple heads on top of the green bodies. Bill has been trying to get the couple to breed for six years.

"Six years ago, they had one baby, but the parents abandoned it in the move from Waukegan," Bill said. "It's a long and drawn out process, it takes a lot of patience."

"They usually breed in the spring, but it's late summer and we have 5 eggs! I'm thrilled!" (Two died in the shell, two hatched and the fifth egg is missing. The Plum-heads did not feed the babies so one died. Bill put the other in with foster parents, Budgerigar Parakeets—common pet parakeets, until it is old enough for Bill to hand feed.)

Some birds will take years to breed, while others just need a change in environment, like the Rosy Bourkes, a relatively new mutation of Bourkes which are usually blue. They were moved from one cage, where they lived for a few months, to another one about 1 1/2 feet away and

'After I bought a parakeet from a friend at a pet shop I've been hooked ever since.'

—Bill Wrate

they began mating right away.

For others, finding a perfect mate is the problem.

Patches, a Mealy Rosella, or Blue Rosella as they are sometimes referred to, is from Australia. Patches lost his wife a short time ago. Though Bill will search for a new mate for the bird, Patches will have to adapt to the life of a "widower" for awhile because of expenses.

"Patches cost around $250, and a female will be more expensive because she is the one that does the breeding," Bill said.

Because Bill is a member of Greater Chicago Caged Bird Club, he attends fairs and shows sponsored by the Club to sell and exhibit birds and to purchase birds from other breeders. He also receives birds from other sources.

"Some missionaries brought a parrot back from Africa and gave it to me," Bill said. "I have a number of different sources."

He also has different pets. Bill has two pet birds, an iguana, rabbits, chinchillas, guinea pigs and a pet pig—a Vietnamese potbelly, Wilbur, who eats birdseed.

Faire bids farewell soon

The time machine known as the Bristol Renaissance Faire will be switched on just two more weekends this summer, Aug. 15-16 and Aug. 22-23. After that, you'll have to wait until next season to travel back to 16th-century Elizabethan England.

This year's bigger and better Faire features full-contact jousting. Each dauntless knight wears a custom-crafted suit of armor costing over $4,000. A new stable building is another tiltyard attraction.

The queen and her court and all the other village denizens are real characters who stay in character to present a slice of 16th-century life.

The expanded Kids Kingdom presents storytellers, puppet shows and more to keep the young ones enthralled.

Over 150 crafters offer their wares, which must be made from materials available during the period.

There's continuous entertainment on 11 separate stages along the village streets. Audience participation adds to the fun.

Visitors can even rent period costumes and be lords or ladies for a day.

Food and liquid refreshments are plentiful.

The Bristol Renaissance Faire is located just north of the Illinois-Wisconsin line, west of I-94 at State Line Road. The hours are 10 a.m. until 7 p.m. Saturday and Sunday — rain or shine.

Admission is $11.95 for adults, $5.95 for kids 5-12 and $10.95 for senior citizens and students (with ID). There are special group rates.

Call (708) 395-7773 or (414) 396-4320 for more information.

Summer concerts come to an end

The final two free summer concerts hosted by Van Vlissingen and Co., Lincolnshire, will be held at noon Aug. 19 and Sept. 2.

Concerts are performed in the amphitheater at One Overlook Point located in the Lincolnshire Corporate Center next to the large lake alongside Milwaukee Ave. and a mile south of Half Day Rd.

Flutist Cathy Garg of Winnetka and pianist William Dresden, a veteran instructor at the Music Center of the North Shore in Winnetka, will perform light classical music Aug. 19.

On Sept. 2, new band director Sgt. First Class William McKinney will lead the Fourth-Army Band from Fort Sheridan.

The Aug. 19 concert features Garg, a doctoral candidate in performance at the Manhattan School of Music from which she has a masters degree; she has an undergraduate degree from the Philadelphia College of Performing Arts. Next spring she will make her Carnegie Hall debut in the Weill Recital Hall in New York.

Dresden has a master of music degree from Yale University and also has earned the Yale Fellowship Award for Advanced Studies. He performs with community orchestras throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico. Dresden has performed solo at Town Hall in New York City and is a member of the Fine Arts Quartet in Chicago.

'Honey II' loses laugh

If great special effects are all you are interested in and little things like an interesting plot and a lot of funny things going on don't necessarily for you a good comedy make, then "Honey I Blew Up the Kid," Walt Disney Studios' sequel to "Honey I Shrunk the Kids," has its moments. The crazy scientist, now working for big business, played again by Rick Moranis and his wife, played by Marcia Strassman, have to deal with another one of his nutty experiments.

Big business is interested in growing larger vegetables etc. to improve their profit margin and in the process, Moranis blows his two-year-old baby-up into Jack-the Giant Killer size.

It seems that shrinking people so that their surroundings are giant-sized is funnier than this other way around.

The special effects in the parent film, especially the kids' ride on a giant insect in an effort to get across their yard to their house, was a much funnier premise.

After the first shot of the humungus baby towering over Las Vegas' buildings, the film loses its element of surprise and even the other special effects following are quite predictable and as stilted as the giant baby.

But all the shrinking experiments haven't been forgotten, as Moranis also knocks his teenage son and his girlfriend down a few sizes.

Big Babies and miniature towns and people draw a few yaks, but since a clever script to pull everything together is almost non-existent, even the special effects cease to amaze and entertain by the middle of the film.

We rate "Honey II" two stars out of five. This one will probably do a good family business when it hits the VCR market.—by GLORIA DAVIS

Critic's Choice

'Buddy Holly Story' returns

If you missed it the first time around, there's a reprieve at hand.

Pegasus Players are staging "Buddy: The Buddy Holly Story" at the O'Rourke Center for the Performing Arts in Chicago—weeks after a short but successful national touring company presentation at the Shubert Theater.

Comparisons are inevitable. The current rendition of Alan Janes' musical ode to the late '50s rock 'n' roller features Christopher Eudy in the lead.

Eudy proves himself technically proficient, both as singer and musician. But he's much stiffer on his feet than the nimble Chip Esten was in the earlier production.

And while Eudy occasionally "connects" with his audience, it's not always obvious whether he's having a good time. But he does deliver a mean "Rave On," a touching "Rain in My Heart" and a pleasing "Peggy Sue."

Director Victoria Bussert has tightened the play, omitting, for example, a non-essential scene involving Buddy, his bride-to-be and her aunt.

The set, including a gargantuan, brightly lit jukebox, works well, and the costuming and music direction are as good as the touring company.

"Buddy" will run through Sept. 13. Ticket information is available at (312)271-2638.—by TOM WITOM

Is It a Deal or Travel Scam?

By Jim Warnken, President
North Star Travel, Inc.

Airfare to Hawaii for $19. A 7 day Caribbean Cruise including airfare for $199. A week in Florida for two with a cruise thrown in for $269. Sound too good to be true?

Of course it is. But thousands of bargain seekers have lost millions of dollars to 'scam artists' advertising travel deals just like these.

A recent advertisement offered a week long cruise for two for only $259. This company claimed they 'overbought'. I found this interesting since travel companies don't 'buy' cruise space. They may contract for 'x' number of cabins, but the unsold cabins may be canceled for a small fee. I called on this ad and will explain what I found in a moment.

How do you tell a real deal from a fraud? The Illinois Attorney General offers this time honored advice, if it sounds too good to be true.

The biggest tip-off though, and the one I found when calling to claim the $259 cruise, is the 'voucher' scam which works like this.

You're asked for a credit card number to which a 'voucher', costing $25 to $100, will be charged. This voucher, which is supposed to make you 'eligible' for the low cruise price, is actually where these guys make their money. You're then asked to pick three sailing dates. Later you're told those dates are sold out and must pick other dates. This goes on until either you give up or the con artists fold up shop and move on to another scam.

In the few cases where travel is actually provided, you'll either pay much more than the advertised price, or you must purchase some other service which is greatly over priced. Such was the case with the $19 Hawaii airfare scam.

The company is now out of business, but, as with most scams, the idea has been carried on by others. To get the $19 airfare you had to purchase a greatly overpriced hotel package.

Other so called travel deals involve spending a weekend with a high pressure salesman trying to sell you a time share, but that's a story for another column.

Horoscope

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Accept responsibilities early in the week, because you'll want to shed them quickly as the weekend nears. The full moon brings out your wanderlust. And wander you will. Plan on getting what you want emotionally and having an extended celebration.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Imagine yourself as a pressure cooker, and you'll know how hot the scenario is this week. Everyone wants you everywhere. You chill out (fortunately) and roll into a wonderful weekend. Do exactly what you want with exactly whom you want.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You connect on a truly deep level with a partner. A full moon has you sailing off to the heavens and beyond. You never had it this good, and that is only the beginning right now.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be more aware of partners right now — where they are coming from and their inner agendas. By taking the back seat, you learn an important piece of info. However, don't agree to anything just now. Accept an invitation this weekend to explore new places.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Take a stand at work and support yourself in getting what you want. Partners and friends all seem rather unstable right now, as the full moon blows into town. The weekend provides many moments of newfound closeness with a friend.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Lie back and regain your confidence. A loved one does care deeply. Be more forthright with a co-worker and a difficult work situation. What happens with the full moon (and what finally comes out) tells you what to let go.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Evaluate your foundations, where you are going and what it is you want. Be more playful and lighten up. You may need some time off for rest and relaxation this weekend.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Initiate some important talks. You are more grounded than you have been in a long time. Settle in and enjoy the chaos around you. Your more playful side emerges just in time for the weekend.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Make the most of the peaceful times, because soon they will be few and far between. You hear news that is rather startling. The roller coaster ride you're on provides you many opportunities.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) You're on a roll (maybe), if you've been very careful dealing with funds. You can't have everything always, is the lesson of the full moon this week. You spend the weekend talking and getting to know another much better.

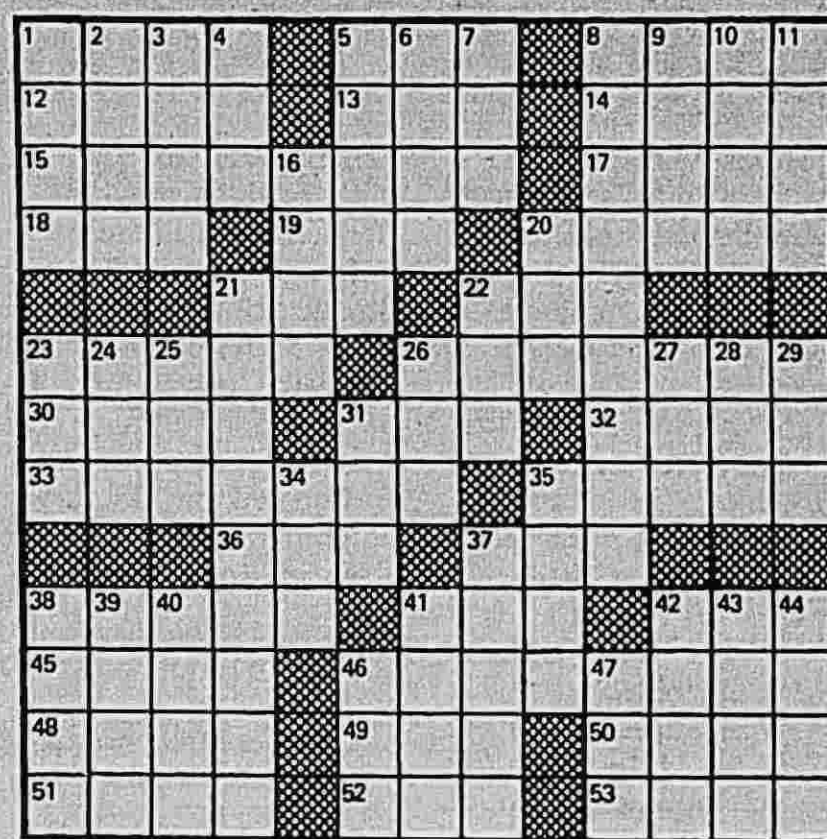

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) Perhaps you've been trying not to say what is really on your mind. Well, it isn't going to continue that way as the full moon accentuates you and those you love. Be prepared to make up for any harsh words said this weekend. And count on another fact: it will cost you.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) First you think you have it, and then you think you don't. The proverbial roller coaster slows down early on in the weekend, when the moon beams you into a leadership role. Ask, my dear fish, and you shall receive.

Lights flickering for Motown Memories radio show

"This is WKGA, AM and FM, Zion and Waukegan."

Another week of Dusty Motown Memories dawns with the instrumental "Mint Julep" by blind musician Ray Charles.

"Let's get started with the Box Tops, 'The Letter,' " announces disc jockey Harold Bocock, as his hand moves across the braille song list. By Harold's side is Joanne, his wife, tapping her foot to the music. It appears to be just another show, but during this taping a sense of gloom hangs over the studio. "I feel like I'm at somebody's funeral," said Joanne.

Dusty Motown Memories, a '50s and '60s radio show broadcast out of western Waukegan, may soon fade into the realm of memory. Harold needs sponsors to come forth if he is to continue bringing his two-hour show to area listeners.

As Harold, 45, sat and taped what may be his last show, he spoke of some of the obstacles he faced to get to be the DJ he had always wanted to be, and of the fear that his dream may be coming to an end.

Harold was working full-time at Victory Memorial Hospital developing X-rays when he was told that his job would become part-time. As fate might have it, what seemed like a letdown actually spurred Harold to go on to pursue his dream of broadcasting.

Harold was unable to secure funds from the Illinois Department of Rehabilitation for training, but that didn't stop him from enrolling in the Columbia School of Broadcasting. He took out a $3,000 loan from the school to pay the tuition, then borrowed money from his parents to pay back the school. He finished the 27-month program in June 1988, after just one year.

Finding a radio station that would take Harold on as a DJ was no easy task. At one Chicago station he was told it didn't take Columbia students. Later he found out that the station had taken in a Columbia student. Harold felt he was discriminated against because he was blind.

One day Harold was flipping through the dials and found WKGA, 1500 on the AM dial. The station's format is mostly Spanish with a handful of English programs including a jazz show, urban contemporary, and gospel.

Harold called the station to find out about job opportunities and was told to send in a demo tape. He recorded the demo tape, sent it to Bob Jeffers, manager/owner, and soon found himself with his own radio show.

While taping the first show, Harold's equipment "blew up." "I had to call a friend for help. He showed up at 2:30 a.m. We ended up using a boom box to record the show. It took from 4 a.m. to 8 a.m. to do a two-hour tape," he recalled. Then on April 5, 1992, Harold Bocock and Dusty Motown Memories made their broadcasting debut.

Harold hasn't made much money from the show. If he sells a 13-week contract for $300, he gets 25 percent — $75. Hardly enough to live on, but Harold receives support via the Disabilities Act and wife Joanne who works as a medical transcriber at St. Therese Hospital.

Joanne understands her husband's passion for music and even shares it. She, too, has been blind since birth. "When you're blind, sometimes the only companion you've got is the radio. You can't always play with the other kids," said Joanne.

Joanne said it grieves her to think of her husband losing his show and the sense of accomplishment it brings him. "My heart hurts for this guy. You feel like you're suspended above a big black hole. You feel like somebody's going to drop the basket and drop you into that black hole."

Joanne and Harold said they would "do anything" to keep the show on the air. But it's harder for them. They can't go door to door looking for sponsors. They get around by cab and that gets expensive.

"It's not that Harold's not able, but he's not able to make all the phone calls. Then there's the idea of having somebody read you the phone book," said Joanne. Station Manager Bob Jeffers is supportive of Harold and he believes the show has potential. "These shows can make it, but it's going to take the community to support a local show," said Jeffers. He admits that it's hard to get listeners to come back to AM. WKGA is only available on FM through U.S. Cable.

Meanwhile, Jeffers has partners and he can't give away programming time. The Bococks understand this.

"Knowing this could be the last program, I'm not angry," said Harold. "If it were not for Bob Jeffers I wouldn't have had my chance to be in broadcasting at all."

Harold's dream doesn't have to end here. It costs only $25 to sponsor one two-hour show of Dusty Motown Memories. For $300, a sponsor gets 13 weeks. For more information, call Jeffers at (708) 336-7606.

One couple's crafty business move

by DAN BERNARD
Lakeland Newspapers

Somewhere between the roar of the emergency room and the crying of her newborn, Pam Ryan felt an urge to turn to gentler pursuits.

A nurse working the night shift at a Racine, Wis. hospital, Ryan took the opportunity of her third child's birth to spend more time on her knack for making craft items, a hobby that had long been a love of hers.

"I was stuck on the night shift," Ryan said. "With the kids, I just couldn't handle third shift anymore. I started this just to keep me busy and supplement our income."

So Ryan went down to the basement in her Brighton, Wis., home and put together the fancy picture frames she liked to create, frames for special occasion like weddings, covered with padding and wrapped in satin like the sort that wedding dress themselves are made of.

But Ryan's hobby grew into a new line of work for her, and soon for her husband Dan as well. Making, distributing and selling crafts took Ryan out of the emergency room and took her and Dan out of Wisconsin and into Lake County. It continues to grow for them, with a new shop in Round Lake Beach. An exhibition this weekend in Crystal Lake should indicate how far they've come from the basement days. The show at the Commons Shopping Center, at U.S. Route 14 and Teckler Blvd., runs from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday.

Ryan was by no means the only person making cloth-covered frames and photo albums. But when she had shown her work at at area crafts shows, she received encouragement. "People kept commenting on the quality, saying they hadn't seen pieces with such high quality."

"My husband said, let's see what we can do with that," Pam said. "My husband, he's the salesman."

With their business, the Ryans act as two halves of the same brain. Pam is the creative mind; Dan is the businessman.

"And that's the way I like it," Pam said, laughing. "I'm no good with sales. Just put me in a corner and let me make my stuff."

Dan proposed they start a factory to mass-produce the frames, later branching out to distribution of general craft supplies. Looking for a location for the shop, the Ryans needed a spot in between Brighton and Palatine, where Dan was raised, where he is parents lived, and where his father would have to commute from to be involved in the business. Lake County was the place, and in the Round Lake area, the price of rent was right. They opened Memories Arts and Crafts Supplies in Round Lake in 1985.

A number of area artisans are doubtless glad that the Ryans made their move. In January they expanded from a small-scale factory to a showroom, moving their Memories at 1193 N. Cedar Lake Road in Round Lake Beach. Now craftsmakers from around the county have their work showcased at the shop.

Now Memories produces 20 to 30 items a day, apart from their distributing business. Dan Ryan says he believes interest in crafts has picked up throughout the county in the seven year Memories has been operating.

Pam's dad Neil Shane came up with an innovation of his own: craft items geared for men. The Memories shop offers frames and photo albums designed for photos and memorabilia from military duty or hunting and fishing trip photos, lined with fabric in camouflage patterns or illustrated with wildlife vignettes.

Dan Ryan may not be a crafter at heart. But he understands what makes them special.

"They just use their imagination and create something, either for practical use or to beautify the buyer's house," he said.

What sets crafts apart from mass-produced gifts one finds in a mall is that the buyer knows each item is unique. To prove it, craftsmakers can even take requests, customizing items to coordinate colors or fabrics.

"You walk into a normal gift store, and either you like and you buy it, or you don't and you leave," Dan Ryan said. "Here, if you want it to make your kitchen, most of the crafters will take special orders."

Walk around the Memories shop with its variety of offerings and you can see what he means.

Terri Watson of Round Lake Beach makes cloth dolls, such as the man with the handlebar mustache reading the newspaper in his nightshirt and the kid with the "Da Bears" jersey. Marge Cox of Wildwood makes baskets ornately decorated with jumbo ribbons.

Amy Gratta of Libertyville makes miniature fruit baskets—watermelon slices and bunches of grapes of kiln-baked clay. Sandy Alspinger of Round Lake Park makes oven-baked air fresheners—heart-shaped, fragrant cinnamon cookies wrapped in lace. Shirley Modes of Mundelein makes miniature ceramic animals with heartwarming faces.

Barb Coughlin of Wildwood makes Teddy bears dressed in tutus and sitting on music boxes. And Diane Ulrich of Island Lake makes ceramic bric-a-bracs on a Southwest theme, such as cacti, Indian women and cattle skulls.

Although they approach their business with different philosophy, the Ryans agree on one thing: When they make what they sell, they make their own decisions.

"I get to express myself, and I can make what I want to make," Pam Ryan said. "Like if I get tired one thing, I'll try something else. If I get tired of a particular fabric, I'll get a new one, and I'll be like a kid in a candy shop all over again."

"Being able to make our own products lets us control our own lives," said Dan Ryan. "The more we work, the more money we make. But we're not obligated."

"And I'll say one thing," Pam added, "it's a lot less nerve-wracking than working in the emergency room."

Business Briefs

Loan arranged for new center

North Chicago—A permanent loan for $1.55 million has been arranged by Baird & Warner's real estate finance group for a new distribution center that has been leased by Maxell Corp. of America, the world's largest distributor of audio tapes, in Waukegan.

Maxell, a wholly owned subsidiary of Hitachi Ltd., is relocating from a smaller facility in Northbrook to a building at Amhurst Lake, an upscale business park whose tenants include Abbott Labs, Baxter Corp. and the Chicago Bears.

The recently completed building is about 40,000 square feet with 2,400 square feet of office space. Features include 28-1/2-foot clear ceiling heights, four depressed loading docks and 44 parking spaces on a total lot size of more than 87,000 square feet.

Answering machine in your pocket introduced

Pocketvoice, a cellular paging service that combines a telephone answering system with Motorola radio communications technology, has been introduced to the Northwest suburbs by Adams Answering Service/Pocketvoice, Glenview.

The company is the only one in the area to offer voice paging with the additional benefits of voice mail. "We're pleased to be able to offer this exciting new technology to Northwest suburban area residents," says Jack Fedell, vice president. "This system is perfect for health care professionals, real estate agents, lawyers, salespersons, any business person who needs to get telephone messages while on the go."

While this radio/telephone technology, incoming telephone messages are sent by radio to a miniature recorder that can be carried anywhere—in cars, on boats, planes, at lunch, etc. When a call is received, the recorder, which measures about three inches by two inches and weighs just 6.5 ounces, beeps or vibrates to indicate an incoming call. The message then can be played on the recorder immediately or replayed in private. The system currently operates in the north and northwestern suburbs.

With Pocketvoice, two messages are received and stored in the recorder. As additional messages are received, previous ones are automatically stored in a voice mail system and can be retrieved by telephone.

Pocketvoice eliminates the need to call in to retrieve messages. Cellular phone users, in particular, can reduce expensive calling time because Pocketvoice allows them to screen incoming calls and call back selectively.

The system offers the added advantage of after-hours service. When the call-forwarding option is added, the service can answer business phones after hours or weekends.

Pocketvoice, which has offices in Glenview and Waukegan, is the brain child of Jack Fedell and Cedric Adams, former Motorola employees with a combined 43 years in the paging and radio telephone business.

Parade shows homes with an equestrian ambience

There are only two weekends left to stroll down the "The Street of Dreams." Located at Nickels and Dimes Farm in the Libertyville area, the Parade of Homes showcases eight fully decorated homes ranging in price from $500,000 to $900,000.

Appropriately, this year's home show is dubbed "The Parade of Thoroughbreds" and many of the homes are decorated with an equestrian theme. Nickels and Dimes Farm was previously known for its championship thoroughbreds.

Browsers will find the Normandy French-inspired Triple Crown built by Orren Pickell Builders, the classic country Ascot by Interlaken Construction, and the French country manor Percheron by Traditional Homes, Inc.

Other homes featured are The Churchill

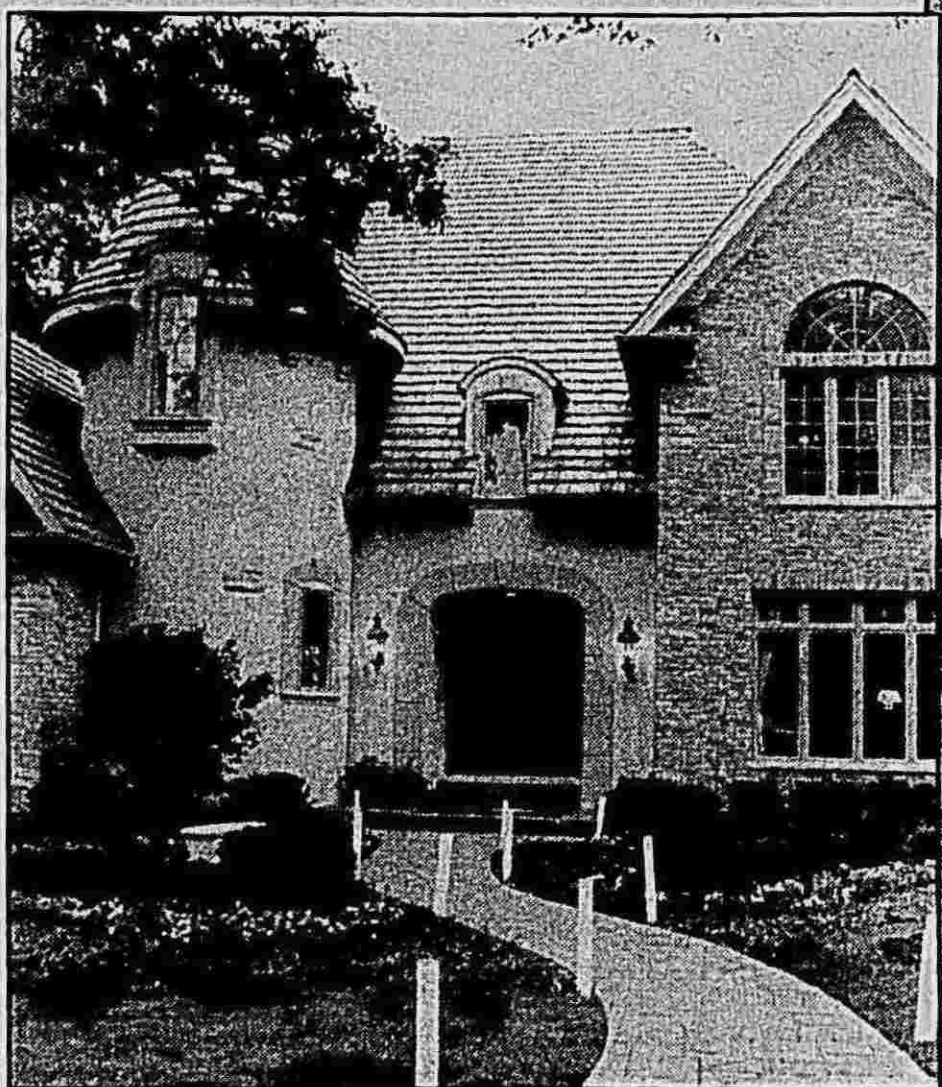

by New Tradition Homes, The Greenbriar by Henderson Homes, Inc.; Strike the Gold by Richter Builders and the Legend and the Lancaster by Chic Martin Signature Homes, Inc.

The Parade of Homes is cosponsored by the Home Builders Association of Greater Chicago and the Home Builders Association of Lake County. It runs through Aug. 23, weekdays and weekends, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. General admission is $6 and admission for senior citizens is $5. Children 12 and under are free.

Nickels and Dimes Farm, a 61-acre development of Cyrus Realtors, is located on River Road, north of Route 137 and south of Route 120.

For more information call the Home Builders Association of Lake County, (708) 816-4663.

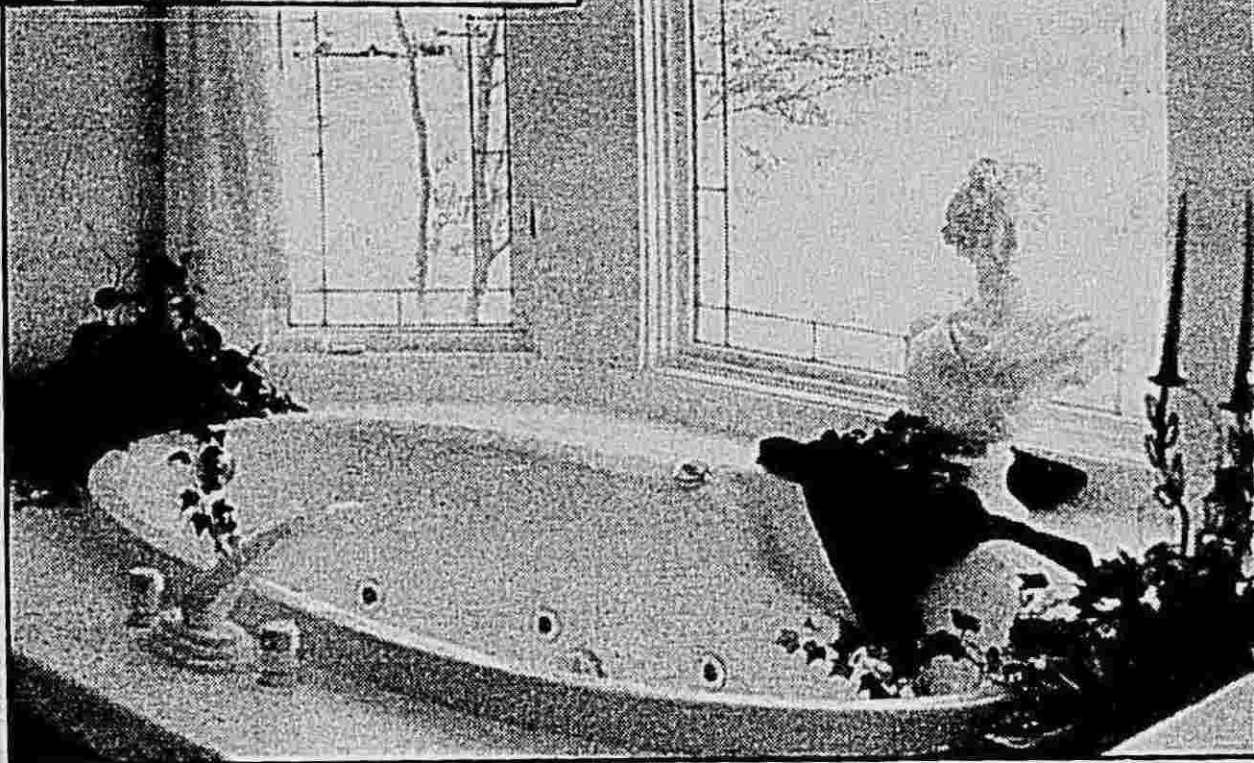

A winding path leads to the entrance of the Triple Crown, built by Orren Pickell Builders, Inc. Those who enter will find a chandelier suspended from a ceiling medallion, plus a grand circular staircase, the curve of which is mirrored by the second-floor hallway.

The media room, above, complete with state of the art electronic components and a built-in, big-screen television is the crowning touch to the Churchill. Below, some small child will have sweet Corvette dreams at the Greenbriar.

This Percheron offers a classically-styled bathroom inviting one to bathe in the midst of luxury.

Despite weather, garden attendance increases helped increase the number of visitors during weekdays. In addition to these considerations, we have been actively trying to reach as many prospective visitors as possible during the past several years."

Taylor says the addition of the Garden's English Walled Garden is now a factor in attracting visitors. "This is the first full season for the English Garden. Our previous experience has shown that specialty gardens stimulate new interest with our visitors." The Botanic Garden's three-island Japanese Garden is one of the more visited attractions at the Garden.

The slow recovery of the economy may also be playing a factor into the upswing in attendance at the Garden. The only mandatory charge is $4 per car for parking. Free parking is one of the benefits of membership offered by the Society. There is no admission charge to the Garden and all shows are free. Cyclists and walkers are admitted to the Garden free of charge and are not included in the attendance figures. "We estimate an additional 10 percent of our visitors take advantage of the Forest Preserve District of Cook County's bicycle path which ends at the Garden," Taylor says. The Botanic Garden is owned by the Forest Preserve District.

As for the months ahead, Taylor admits much depends on the weather.

"The cool temperatures don't seem to deter visitors, but rain definitely does." The Garden is open daily, except for Christmas, and offers special events and programs all year long. The Garden will host a special 12-week exhibit, "Tropical Rainforests: A Disappearing Treasure" from Jan. 4 through March 28, 1993.

"We think this thoughtful exhibit will attract visitors to the Garden during a time of year when they may not generally think to visit. This exhibit will not only inform visitors about some of the key issues about the rainforest, but will enable them to tour our tropical collections in our educational greenhouses."

The Chicago Botanic Garden is a 300-acre living museum owned by the Forest Preserve District of Cook County and managed by the Chicago Horticultural Society. It is located on Lake Cook Rd. in Glencoe, one-half mile east of the Edens Expressway. The Chicago Botanic Garden is accredited by the American Association of Museums and a member of the Association of Science-Technology Centers.

Despite this summer's unusual weather, attendance at the Chicago Botanic Garden has increased. The Chicago Botanic Garden finished July with 69,468 visitors, a net increase in attendance of seven percent for the month and a three percent increase for the year-to-date. Through the month of July, the Botanic Garden has attracted 298,858 visitors, compared to 290,834 during 1991.

Figures include both members and non-members of the Chicago Horticultural Society which operates the 300-acre Botanic Garden.

"We think there are several reasons for the increase," says Roy L. Taylor, Ph.D., director of the Botanic Garden. "We have seen an increase in the number of tour groups which visit the Botanic Garden which appears to have

Unique garden activities set

A unique activity for the whole family is also planned for the Labor Day weekend. "Poundings," which involves the pounding of flowers into cloth, making beautiful patterns that participants can take home, is scheduled from 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 5 through Monday, Sept. 7.

Anyone interested in learning more about roses can visit the rose consul-ants in the Botanic Garden's Rose Garden from 1 to 4 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 6.

The Midwest Daffodil Society will sell daffodil bulbs from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 5 and from noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 6 in the Botanic Garden's West Courtyard.

The Society will be selling a variety of bulbs, including miniatures. Society members will be available to answer questions and help visitors choose the best bulbs.

The Northshore Iris and Daylily Society will also hold a sale from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 5 and from noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 6 in the West Courtyard. Society members will be on hand to help people select the best varieties for their gardens.

Traditional practices can solve modern problems

Planting and caring for green plants, both indoors and out, offers plenty of opportunities to contribute to a better environment. According to the American Forestry Association, if every American planted two trees, those trees, when mature, would remove 18 million tons of carbon dioxide from the air and save everyone $9 billion in heating and cooling costs annually.

It stands to reason that the world would be a much better place if every-one spent more time gardening. The best part is, you don't have to be a rocket scientist to do the right thing in the garden. It's basically common sense.

Common sense gardening, both indoors and out, can make a meaningful difference in the quality of your own personal environment and that of the whole planet. The keys to environmental responsibility are, for the most part, simple, traditional ideas like thrift, moderation, recycling, and making little go a long way.

Integrated pest management

Sounds technical and complicated, but what integrated pest management really means is "think before you spray."

The mere sight of a bug used to send some gardeners running for the Flit gun.

Fact is, we can live with a few bugs. Many are actually beneficial. And the ones that do real damage can usually be dealt with non-toxically.

Large, plant-eating bugs like the tomato horn worm can be hand-picked. Trap slugs by leaving a saucer of beer, or an overturned grapefruit half in the garden overnight. Soft bodied plant suckers like aphids and white flies can be controlled by spraying with homemade or commercial soap solution.

In general, keep things neat, so pests have fewer spots to hide. Healthy, welled gardens, lawns and house plants will resist pests. Finally, if you must resort to a pesticide, use it with care and exactly according to the directions on the label.

A sensible approach to plant food

Garden center shelves are filled with new "natural, organic" products. Total organic gardening, while an admirable goal, requires an enormous commitment of time and energy, and may be impractical for you. Organic fertilizers, mostly based on manure or compost, tend to be good soil improvers, but poor sources of nutrients.

Dr. Roy Flannery, a professor of horticulture at Rutgers University, has spent years studying organic vs. synthetic fertilizers. He says "water soluble fertilizer, as a source of nutrients makes far more sense in terms of time labor and cost—and plants respond to it better."

Flannery also points out that water soluble fertilizer is environmentally sound because it's applied in a very dilute solution that plants absorb and use immediately, leaving no residue behind. Soil improvement, he says, is best accomplished using purchased or homemade amendments like compost. Making your own brown gold

Compost, simple decomposed vegetable matter, is the world's best soil improver. In Australia, where leaves and grass clippings are banned from landfills, everyone composts.

You can buy a tumbler that will make compost in a few weeks, or simply pile layers of leaves, grass and kitchen scraps in an inconspicuous spot in the backyard. Add a little garden soil and some high nitrogen fertilizer like Miracid to get things going.

WHAT ARE YOU DOING THIS WEEKEND THAT'S SO IMPORTANT YOU CAN'T TEST YOUR HOME FOR RADON?

Radon is a naturally occurring, deadly radioactive gas that finds its way into millions of homes all over the country. It's the second leading cause of lung cancer in America.

If you haven't tested for radon yet, pick up a kit this weekend. Testing is quick and easy. Or call for more information today.

great. I have lived other places and none of their services or programs can compare. My family and I feel fortunate we have such a great park district. I know that many people are angry at the trustee who said that he would like to do away with the park district. Do you think that I would trust him and others like him to decide my taxes on a home rule policy? No way!

Thanks for get well wishes

Hi, first of all I would like to extend a warm and loving thank you to my husband for supporting me through my diabetes and the birth of our two daughters. Thank you very much to our two families for supporting us the way that they have. I really appreciate all the help you have given me. You are all in my thoughts and prayers. Bye.

Rock and Roll can't live on

It is time that we did something about the horrible Rock and Roll music and the blasts of unknown quantities of volume all over. There isn't even an FM station in the Chicago area that plays nice elevator music that you can listen to in the office. Why has this awful music taken over? Can't we get back to the great sounds of Big Band? The nice quiet music that people can listen to instead of the sexually orientated tunes that blast? Even the health club has it blaring. You can't change clothes without that trash.

Where are my sewers and water?

I have lived near Little Silver Lake in Antioch for over 15 years and have paid taxes faithfully all of those years. I want to know when the Antioch village board is going to get around to putting in sewer and water in this area. I see the village running the sewage and water miles and miles to give service to new developments that have not paid one cent in taxes. Since Little Silver Lake is the water source for Sequoit Creek, which supplies much water for Antioch, it makes sense to put the sewers in. Thank you.

If poor, don't waste money

Hi, I am from Lindenhurst. And I am sick and tired of people crying that they are poor and crying that they are broke. They go out to dinner every week, they wear the best cologne, they wear the best clothes, they smoke two cartons of cigarettes a week. They have to have a job that they only have to work certain hours a week and certain hours a day. It gets a little annoying when you always hear how "we don't have any money" and "we can't pay our bills." These are the people that spend what little money that they have and won't get up off their rear ends and get a job until they find a job they like. Please, don't complain. Thanks a lot. Bye-bye.

Coupons not deducted

I really have a gripe. This happens to me constantly. But, I am going to tell you what happened to me at the 15 item check-out counter at the grocery store. When I checked out, I did not think that I spent as much as I was charged. I just knew what my merchandise would be. So, when she checked me out I asked her where my receipt was. And the girl said that it was in one of my bags, not talking very nice. So, I went and sat on the bench. I was not about to go home and then have to go back again. I am 75-years-old. Sure enough, I checked my items. You know how they have that buy one get one for nothing? Well, I gave them my coupon, but she never took it off. I went back to her and she said, in not a very nice tone, "Oh, go to the desk there. They will give you the money back!" There were three girls there, all talking. Finally, I asked for help. Well, one of them came and she looked at it. And she gave me the $3.18. And then I asked for the tax and she gave me $.03. For tax? I know that it is 6.5 percent. No one said they were sorry. I am very angry. So, that's my gripe. This is why I am complaining. I wish more people would look at their receipts. Thank you very much for listening to me. Bye.

Talent was joke

Yes, I just witnessed the most bizarre event at the Lake County Fair, the amateur talent contest. First of all, they had a little girl in a sequined black dress doing a tap number. You would have thought she was 30-years-old. And guess who won the event? The current Little Miss Lake County from Vernon Hills. Most contestants, guess where they were from, Vernon Hills, Mundelein and Libertyville, Deerfield and Buffalo Grove. What happened to the little towns in Lake County?

Kids are not weapons

The topic is about abortion and gun control. Watching the news, I was disgusted watching children protest abortion and being arrested. The parents, they worry about the unborn while jeopardizing their own born. Also, in the schools, using the children against gun control. It was stated that 46 percent were for it. What the hell is going on, using children in political issues that they don't understand? It is brainwashing! We'd better investigate before we all become sheep. I'm from Antioch. So let's hope we can do something about it and let them learn their ABC's.

Turnout was weak

Hello. I realize that Fox Lake depends on tourism. But, last night after packing up my three small children, blankets, snacks and traveled 30 miles, we can't tell you how disappointed we were with your front page ad for the Venetian Night Boat Parade. What happened to the other estimated 38 boats? My admiration goes out to the 12 boats and the police who did participate. But, where did they come up with these figures? It was a wasted night. Thank you very much, Antioch.

GOOD BEGINNINGS NEVER END

Lakeland
Newspapers

As of late, parents are often advised by those knowledgeable in regards to child care to make sure that their children enroll in what is now defined by the National Association for the Education of Young Children as a developmentally appropriate preschool. Just what is developmentally appropriate and why is it important for children to attend such a setting?

A developmentally appropriate preschool is simply a preschool that offers curriculum (learning) and guidance (discipline) practices that are "age appropriate" and "individual appropriate" for each child who participates. A developmentally appropriate nursery school or day care center is not a setting that permits children to merely play (although play is the avenue through which children best learn); nor is it a setting that permits children to engage in any type of behavior they desire.

Parents need to know

As a parent you surely wish that a preschool experience would offer your child opportunities that would prepare them for academic skills that will be needed in Kindergarten or first grade. You probably also hope that among other things, your child will learn to cooperate with others, develop friends, and follow directions. As a result of this desire, such parents are tempted to select preschools that put great emphasis on teaching the letters of the alphabet, numerals and other factual information, as well as practice a set disciplinary approach when teaching children to follow societal rules.

The truth is, a focus on specific learning tasks goes against the natural mode of learning of the young child. David Elkind, the author of "The Miseducation of Children: Superkids at Risk," who has spent years working with and observing preschoolers as well as researching what is good for them, points out the short and long term risks that are associated with exposing children to formal instruction too soon.

Short term

risks include fatigue, eating or sleeping disorders and possible decreased efficiency. Long term risks refer to such occurrences as potential harm to the child's motivation and loss of opportunity to learn since the child learns best through modeling and verbal interaction. The developmentally appropriate setting

Developmentally appropriate settings have teachers who prepare the environment for children to learn through active exploration and interaction between themselves and other children. Developmentally appropriate practicing teachers use real objects from the environment that stimulate the child's interest and push the child beyond what the child might learn if merely exposed to such information as letters or numerals. This is an example of how you as a parent might recognize an appropriate experience:

Upon entering the preschool, a table of toy dinosaur models with sand, rocks and water might be visible. The names of the dinosaurs could be printed on lined sentence strip (using the print type that children will be required to reproduce once in a Kindergarten setting) and placed next to the individual dinosaurs. The children will be allowed to approach the table and the preschool teacher will introduce the dinosaurs by name, pointing out the number of models on the table as well as the beginning letter (and sound of that letter) and the word dinosaur. Suddenly, one or more of the children might imitate the behavior of dinosaurs, dramatizing the movement of the prehistoric animals and perhaps singing a song that the teacher has taught at an earlier group time. All children could be allowed to use tablet paper and large pencils to begin copying symbols or framing the letter "D" (d) if they desire.

The previously mentioned type of activity creates an atmosphere in which children practice engaging in communication using oral language and as a result, learn the needed skills of cooperation and responsibility. The children are naturally required to take turns, using the dinosaurs and learn to speak to others in a respectful manner.

Support your preschool teachers in offering learning opportunities designed for young children.—by

Good beginnings do make a difference

The theme "Good Beginnings Never End" was adopted by the Child Care Coalition of Lake County because the Coalition believes that with good, early, childhood beginnings, we can reduce the many problems in our society.

Our logo, joining hands, represents the collaborative effort needed to achieve a goal of good beginnings for all children. When we utilize the forces of the business community, parents, teachers/providers, policy makers/legislators, all working in a united way, we will make a difference.

High quality costs. Poor quality costs more.

The Coalition's energies have focused on quality care as the primary issue to be addressed. During the past three years, the Coalition, comprised of more than twenty-five agencies and individuals, has emphasized this theme, while implementing advocacy/awareness campaigns, such as the:

- Employer's Business Round Table - workshop

- Week of the Young Child - parent education and celebration of children

- a committee to develop guidelines for inter-generational care

- a research project to evaluate the nutrition for children who participate in full time child care

- a video for a local community on their specific child care resources and needs.

We are a not-for-profit organization. We look forward to expanding our advocacy role to ensure high quality care for all children in Lake County and becoming the leader in Illinois.

care center with free children's admission tickets to Circus Vargas the evening of Sept. 14.

Additionally two children have been selected as guest clowns for Sept. 14. They will have their make-up put on by clowns from circus

Vargas and will be introduced at the beginning of the evening.

For additional information on Circus Vargas and how to get free childrens admission tickets for the Sept. 14 evening show, contact (708)578-9311.

Prevent sexual abuse of children

The Lake County Health Dept. and the Waukegan Police Dept. are co-sponsoring a new class called "A Touchy Subject," intended to help parents of pre-schoolers prevent the sexual abuse of their children. A short film will be shown, then parents will learn about the normal developmental stages of children and how to bring up the subject without frightening their youngsters. Parents will also learn what signs to look for in a child who is being abused.

All day-care and pre-school parent groups in Lake County are invited to request this program for their schools.

Presentations are scheduled to begin in September. Call Sharon Doney at the Health Dept. at (708)360-6716 or (708)360-6753 to arrange this program.

Developing a life-time of good eating habits

Good nutrition and the development of good eating habits starts from birth and becomes a life-long quest.

For some parents and care takers of children, the hardest part of good nutrition is getting a child to eat what you know is good for them. Proper nutrition is a habit that is learned through watching the examples of others and through experience.

James and Janet Scharnell of Quality Catering, Inc., in Lake Villa, has been servicing Lake County day care centers for over 15 years. "We discovered some years ago that more children recognize Ronald McDonald than Santa Claus," said James Scharnell. "But convenience comes at a high cost. Too many children are eating empty calories found in fast food."

To combat what he terms "being out-advertised" by fast-food chains, Scharnell has developed a Nutrition Information Program for the 50 day care centers he services and the parents of their children. Along with the monthly menu, he highlights two or three important vitamins and minerals and explains why they are good for a child and important to their growth. Through his program, kids get to know Vitamin D- "The Sunshine Guy" and Sodium "The Salty Dude."

"I believe if you expose kids at an early age and over a period of time to good nutrition they will understand what they need to eat to get the proper nutrition," Scharnell said. "They may not be jumping up and down over nutrition but they will recognize it if given to them in a meaningful way. The only way to know good nutrition is to be exposed to it."

Walter Warlyn, Director of Plum Catering believes that its how you present food to kids that makes a difference. "I believe if you put good food in front of a kid, they will like it," said Warlyn. Plum Catering provides food service to more than 100 day cares in the Chicago metropolitan area and has made expanding to serving Lake County facilities in the last couple of years. Warlyn believes that children's diets should consist of required proteins, a complex carbohydrate at each meal and should be light on red meat. "When we do use a red meat, we use very lean, choice meat," he said. He also restricts his menu to fresh fruit for desert items and offers not cakes or cookies in his menu planning.—by RHONDA VINZANT

The Eating Right Pyramid

Quality Catering Is Your Child's Food For Thinking

What Is The Eating Right Pyramid?

The Pyramid is an outline of what to eat each day. It is not a rigid prescription, but a general guide that lets you choose a healthful diet that's "right" for you.

The Pyramid calls for eating a variety of foods to get the nutrients you need and at the same time the right amount of calories to maintain a healthy weight. The Pyramid also focuses on fat because most American diets are too high in fat, especially saturated fat.

Veterans child care center celebrates 15 years

The Paul K. Kennedy Child Care Center at the Veterans Affairs Medical Center in North Chicago will celebrate its 15th anniversary at 3 p.m. Aug. 14 at the center.

The public is invited to an ice cream social by center officials.

Florida Duffie, head infant teacher at the Kennedy Child Care Center in North Chicago cares for an infant.

The center was established in 1977 for VA employees to have a place for their children while working. It was the first of all VA centers nationwide to become established.

Currently serving children ages six weeks through kindergarten, there is a summer camp program for school-age children.

With an annual turnover of staff nationwide at 50 percent, Kennedy Center official said "they were proud of the longevity of its teachers."

Waukegan residents Cora Bradford and Elizabeth Dixon have worked at the center since it opened. Florida Duffie, also a Waukegan resident and mother of 14, is the head infant teacher and has worked at the center since 1978.

Executive Director Charlene Ackerman has headed the center since 1985 and was responsible for the move into its current location.

In spring 1991, the center gained accreditation from the National Academy of Early Childhood Programs. The academy is located in Washington, D.C.

YWCA offers community child care services

A small company is concerned about child care for six employees expecting babies in the next few months. A parent with a child entering kindergarten this fall needs half day child care. A teen parent calls needing child care for her infant so she can attend high school.

These are a sample of the calls the Child Care Resource and Referral at the YWCA of Lake County receives each day. As a community service for residents of Lake and McHenry Counties, the 1-800-CHILD76 toll free number is available to serve parents from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to noon on Fridays.

Parents receive information on child care options, cost, programming, accreditation and licensing as well as actual referrals. The fee for the service is on a sliding scale according to income and covers a fraction of the cost of the service. The fee entitles the parent to use the service for 12 months.

In the past year 1,900 families were served in Lake and McHenry

Counties. This represents 2,612 children. Forty-five percent of these children needing care were infants and toddlers, 31 percent were preschoolers and 21 percent were school-age children.

There is a shortage of child care in both counties, especially for infant and school-age child care. In order to increase the supply of child care, the Child Care Resource and Referral works with other agencies, schools, community groups and employers to encourage and plan the development of additional programs.

Child care providers are able to locate training opportunities through the Child Care Resource and Referral program.

Training on "How to Start a Child Care Home," CPR/First Aid, infant care, child development and the business aspects of child care are available at location in both counties. Providers of child care are also supported by Toy and Equipment Lending Libraries, quarterly newsletters, child care associations and conferences.

Many providers of child care are not aware of licensing regulations in Illinois. Anyone providing child care for more than one family should check into licensing regulations. For licensing information call the Lake Villa field office of the Dept. of Children and Family Services at (708)356-1011.

Providers of child care can call (708)662-4283 or (815)459-2644 for information on trainings.

Parents speak out to change early childhood education

More parents today appreciate and know the importance of speaking out in ways which will affect change in the field of early childhood education. Yet the need for advocacy is greater than ever.

Parents more than anyone else have a long-term commitment to the needs of children. They have a special right to speak out and be heard.

Advocacy begins on the homefront, in the community, and with other parents. As parents become involved with their own children's interests and activities, they develop a sense of what is needed. Through participation in educational and developmental programs, parents can influence the process. When a parent takes the time to express concern, offer assistance, and ask questions, they become informed, active and effective. In short, they begin to influence policies and decision making.

It is every parent's right and responsibility to become involved in children's issues. It is important for concern to reach beyond their own programs to other children and families. Community leaders, employees, and elected officials represent community needs. Impress upon them the issues of children and families. You are not alone. Parents have a powerful influence and what you do can make your community attuned to children's needs.

Advocacy is speaking out for children and families, and the future depends on it! If you care...here's how

• Speak out and express concerns to employers, community members and elected officials.

• Become familiar with community services and issues. Find out who to contact.

• Get acquainted and keep in touch with interest groups and policy makers.

• Become involved at all levels of communication. Share opinions with other parents and parent groups.

• Encourage employers to assist families with young children by providing flexible scheduling, parental leaves and child care assistance.

• Develop strategies for improving the quality of life for all children.

• Support child care professionals in their campaign to improve conditions for child care.

• Write, call and visit legislators.

• Make sure to register, vote and be counted. Consider past performance on children's issues.

• Support public officials that put words into action by providing services for children and families.

A record 1,000 Lake County residents turned out for Lakeland Newspapers' annual treat for its readers, Family Night at Kristof's Entertainment Center and World of Fun in Round Lake Beach.

Lakeland and Kristof's co-sponsored the annual free evening of go-carting, miniature golfing and bowling. Residents participated in Family Night from 4 to 10 p.m.

County branches out with tree grants

Two Lake County communities and one park district have been tapped on the shoulder with more than $50,000 in federal Small Business Administration grants for planting trees on public lands.

This tree-planting initiative may help "stimulate the local economy by providing communities with dollars to hire local businesses, such as nurseries, garden centers and landscaping services, to purchase and plant trees on public areas," noted Illinois

Governor Jim Edgar.

Vernon Hills obtained $30,000, the maximum amount available per grant. The money will aid in the development of a passive recreational area in the Continental Executive Park, north of the Stone Fence Farms subdivision. By law, local governmental units must provide a minimum of 40 percent funding in the matching grant program.

The Wauconda Park District was tapped with $6,464 in grant money for the construction of a neighborhood park.

"The money will help with the construction of a neighborhood park in the Country Ridge subdivision," noted Wauconda Park District Director Randy Reopelle. The subdivision is approximately two-thirds complete.

Also, Lincolnshire netted a $3,730 grant from the SBA.

Approximately $1.2 million in grants have been distributed since September.

IN THIS DAY AND AGE CAN BE HECTIC

By trying to accomplish a lot in a short period of time, we sometimes rush right through important events and lose their meaning. One important event that deserves extra time and attention is the death of a loved one. Death is a major transition which creates stress. Death means that one's relationship with a person has ended. When someone close to us dies it is helpful to take the time to mark this event in the company of friends. A meaningful funeral and visitation is an appropriate way to do that. After the funeral we need to take time to begin putting our affairs in order and assess what life without the deceased will mean. Taking time to express feelings, to talk with others who care, and to make good plans for the future are some ways to help ourselves after a death.

Chiefs learn great deal on World Series journey

You make the call

Clark Collins of the Lake County Chiefs is off the bag as a St. Albans runner slides in. The Chiefs won contest, 8-1. Collins hit a homer in the game. They were six hours from home, many on their first baseball road trip.

For some 40-odd games, the Lake County Chiefs dominated area 10-year-olds and faced some adversity such as how to rally and win a tournament from the losers bracket.

But on a five-day swing in Des Moines, this group of youngsters learned to deal with the adversity of injury, learning there are teams out there better than you and maybe someday they will realize baseball is not as all-important as it may seem. And through it all, they still managed some impressive individual statistics.

The Chiefs finished 2-4 in six pool play games, then won an 8-1 contest against St. Alban Saints of Indianapolis in a revenge game before being ousted in a second round consolation game in AAU World Series play.

"The kids were nervous. We had a real quiet bus ride over," Coach Art Mansavage said after a 10-6 loss to Minnesota.

The contest was the third of the day this Wednesday, a day the Lake County team needed to win three to have any hopes of continuing in the winners bracket. They won one, a 7-3 decision over top-rated Taylorville, Utah. The Chiefs scored three runs in the game-deciding fifth inning.

The Chiefs had their best game of the tournament in combining hitting and pitching in an 8-1 win over St. Alban.

The Chiefs put the game away with a six-run sixth inning.

Clark Collins, who homered earlier, joined Dave Giamo, Wesley Peete and Nester Toro with two safeties each.

The game was a tight one when Peete came in relief of Clark Collins in the third inning. He allowed a one-out triple, but that was the only hit as he struck out five. After surrendering a first-inning run, Peete and Collins teamed up on a three-hitter, striking out eight.

"The boys played the game they are capable of. It was real nice we got eight runs, but it was even nicer that we got the ground balls when we needed them and played well defensively. The games we lost, we lost our edge," Mansavage said.

Collins was moved up from the fifth to the fourth spot in the order. "He has that ability. He is a dangerous hitter," Mansavage said. So much so that after the homer, the St. Alban right-fielder practically played against him at the fence.

The tourney was not without injuries, though. Mac Mansavage, the coach's son played through an injured hand and was treated at the games after shaken up on hard plays at the plate.

His Dad, though, had to miss the team's final game as he suffered from heart pains and had to be taken to Mercy Hospital in Des Moines. He was released and was expected to have further tests done this week at Lake Forest Hospital.

Chiefs' parents answer call, pitch in at tourney

Pitching in.

The Lake County Chiefs 10-years-old and under baseball team had started the national AAU World Series in Des Moines, Iowa, with high hopes of at least reaching the winners bracket.

While results on the field, a second round loss in the quest for a consolation title may not have been what the Lake County contingent had in mind when it departed for Iowa last Sunday, efforts of the parents made the trip a memorable one.

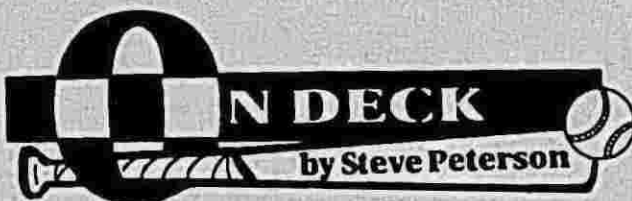

Coach Art Mansavage missed the final game due to heart problems suffered Friday. He was examined by parent Gene DiClemente, a former paramedic, who recommended him to be transported to the hospital.

Dave Collins, assistant coach, took over Mansavage's duties in the dugout while Joe Ratcliff coached first base in a 10-7 loss to Pineville which ended the season. Dave Platt continued his assistant's duties.

"The parents really rallied around. We had taken some kids in our motorhome and the parents took the kids we had and made sure they got home. The kids were told they were going to see an Iowa Cubs AAA game and some parents took them," Mary Mansavage, Art's wife, said.

For Coach Art Mansavage was in a Des Moines Hospital at the time, undergoing tests for heart problems.

Collins, whose son Clark pitches and plays first for the Chiefs, played baseball himself at Parkland College in Champaign. His son, in fact is following in his father's footsteps in his chosen positions.

"The kids showed a real intense level of play. They picked up their level of play against better competition," Collins said.

Clark had his second homer of the tourney in the game Dad was referring to, an 8-1 win over St. Alban of Indianapolis.

The team's chances for a consolation title appeared strong as the Chiefs gained a 7-3 lead after one against Pineville. But the Reds rallied for five runs in the second and two in the third for a 10-7 win.

There were some memorable moments from the trip to the Iowa state capitol. There was Ashley Alden, Nate's little sister, doing cartwheels in the middle of the fourth inning of the Minnesota game. There was members from all tourney teams coming over to the donated Lake County recreational vehicle buying souvenirs. There was the team members handing out souvenir books on the squad, and, of course, the traditional trading of pins from teams from all over the country. "I'll trade you an Arkansas for an Illinois," for example. There was the "Lake County Chiefs" pennants hanging from the fences.

AAU threw some curves in rule changes, including a 90-minute limit. That proved crucial to the Chiefs in the final game. The Chiefs ended the AAU tourney with a 35-8 season record.

"We played well in spots. But the only game we came together on offense was the 8-1 win over St. Alban. The boys learned the importance of timely hitting and that errors and walks kill you," Collins said.

John McEvilla of Gurnee batted .615 for the tournament. Nate Alden of Park City had a .571 average and David Giamo of Waukegan batted .524. Nester Toro of Gurnee continued to lead in stolen bases with seven. Mac Mansavage and Joe Ratcliff of Waukegan both had eight RBIs.

Mansavage proved you could not keep the baseball man off the ballfield long.

He guided the Chiefs to a third-place finish at a Buffalo Grove tourney Sunday, then was back on the radio for his weekly show on WJJD that night.

The Chiefs took the third place title with a 10-3 win over Palatine.

The team finishes the season this weekend at Thillans Stadium in Chicago. The team not only had a chance for a 50-win season, but the winner has its flag flown over the field for another year.

A fitting tribute for a season of pitching in and memories.

Kenosha's Reeves takes another Gurnee crown

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

According to the outline for the 10K Gurnee Days Pepsi run, there would be a slight change in the finish compared to previous years.

While the course may have been different to allow for roping off of an area for a planned helicopter landing, the order of finish remained status quo as Tim Reeves of Kenosha beat out Dan Crooker of Arlington Heights by some 15 seconds. The two finished one-two in last year's 10K.

The race featured 124 male finishers, 39 female finishers, a sibling duo and toddlers who gained some exercise.

"The two of us pulled through about three and one-quarters mile into the race, but I was not in as good a shape as last year," Reeves said.

Reeves still finished with a 33:34.9, topping Crooker's 33:51.5 and Ron Amster of Libertyville's 34:04.0. All three received trophies.

"He was ahead the whole way. I was third with a mile left and tried to make a run, but he is a good runner," Crooker said.

Reeves is preparing for a marathon run Oct. 11 in Columbus, Ohio. He runs for the University of Wisconsin-Parkside team and normally trains 40 to 50 miles weekly.

HIGH LIFE

Long TD run by Coleman highlights Knights debut

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers
Lake County Knights
semi-pro football team started the 1992 highlight film Saturday in Racine.
Those who left the contest with the mighty Racine Raiders early missed the Knights' best plays in their first game.

Rodney Coleman returned a kickoff 95 yards for a touchdown and Gordon Bit-tner threw an extra point pass to Cliff Paul as the Knights scored their first touchdown ever. Racine, though, had built up a 53-0 lead by then.

"The middle opened up.
Anybody could have run through it," Coleman said of his run.

The jaunt was one yard shy of a 96-yard kickoff return for a score Coleman netted against Palos while a member of the Lake County Vikings.

Coleman, a 1986 North

Chicago graduate, had to elude the Racine kicker. "I faked him outside and cut back inside," he said.

The Knights, who open
the Chicago Football League season Aug. 16 against the Broncos at Gately Stadium, did have several positives.

There was Dennis Lane consistently harassing the Racine linemen, notching several tackles for losses and blocking two extra point attempts.

"He is one of our anchors.
He is our most experienced lineman and he'll be teaching the newcomers," Coach Tom Nelson said.

"We were the first team to score on them," Nelson added. Racine, ranked sixth nationally, had racked up 92 points against two foes before Coleman's touchdown.

Quarterback Gordon Bit-tner, returning to his home
Horlick Field, was an effective weapon at times as a scrambler. "We did it purposely. We wanted to spread them up but the line is new and the timing is not there,"

Nelson said.

Lake County Knights did not have to wait long to see what kind of a night the debut would be. The snap went over the punter's head on the first punt, leading to a 10-yard run by Mark Ennepner. He scored another touchdown in the second quarter for a 28-0 lead.

The Raiders took only two plays to score their second touchdown, a 10-yard run by Mike Reisterer.

Reisterer hooked up with Darnell Marshall on the longest TD of the night, a 56-yard pass. Marshall topped the 100-yard mark with four catches.

Reserve quarterback Charlie Bliss got into the act, Kneuse throwing two touchdown passes. Punter
Dan Kneuse got into the act on a fake.

Velottas finish one, two

Molly and Mary Velotta, standouts on the Libertyville High School cross country teams, were one-two for females in the Gurnee Days 10K run.

Molly had a time of 39:08.3, topping her twin sister's 40:55.7.

"It felt good. It was only our second 10K in two years," Molly, who is headed to Purdue University Aug. 20, said.

Nikolus, age one-and-one-half years and Ben, three, Lima rode along in a three-wheeled baby jogger as mom Hetty competed.

"We run 30 miles a week. Ben has been doing this since he was nine months old," Mrs. Lima said.

The toddlers may not have realized it, but mom set a personal best, 56.25, topping her old mark of 58 minutes.

"It is a good way to get a workout and to get the kids involved," Mrs. Lima said.

Vikes seek strong start for fourth semi-pro year

Lake County Vikings will kickoff their fourth season with a game against the Chicago Falcons.

The Vikes' game, expected to be at Round Lake High at 6:30 p.m. will be coming off a one-week layoff
after a 46-0 win over the Chicago Chargers.

"Everything went fine.
We are all anxious to get the first game of the regular season in," Coach Russ Kraly said.

Willie Garrett unofficially had 81 yards and scored three touchdowns in the win.

Garrett had turned some heads in a 17-14 loss to the Chicago Chargers the week before, scoring the Vikings' first touchdown of the season. He scored on touchdown runs of 24, nine and 25 yards.

Running back Bob Lochman got the offense going in the first quarter on a 15-yard touchdown run.

Walter Tesch threw an 18-yard pass to team owner
Rick Starosta for a 13-0 lead.

A short two-yard pass from Wes Quist to Jerry Nash accounted for the next score and Garrett scored his third TD of the day on a 25-yard fourth quarter run.

"We came together a lot last week," owner Rick Starosta said.

Golfer Howes preparing for top amateur tourney

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers
Today, Renwood Country Club.

In 10 days, the best golf courses Mertyle Beach, South Carolina has to offer.

That is what is on the agenda for Round Lake Beach golfer Mike Howes. After shooting for this weekend's Renwood Club Championship, Howes will begin in earnest preparation for the World Amateur Handicap tournament Aug. 24-28.

He has competed in the event the last two years, finishing 69th two years ago and 19th in his flight last year.

"The courses are a lot harder in South Carolina and the big difference is they have Bermuda grass there. It is very hard and does not hold the lines as well. Most of the courses are in woods, with swamps and a lot of hazards and fairways are 40 to 30 feet wide," Howes said.

Howes once had a five handicap, but an injury and a change in jobs took their toll, increasing the figure to 11. He will also be battling the home-course advantage the southern golfers have.

He will not know the location of his first course until a week before the tourney.

Howes did not compete in golf in high school, picking up the sport later in life.

"When I went to school, golf was for whimps. But someone took me to a course and the first round I shot a 98," he recalled.

Larry Bucknell of Grayslake is the defending champ at Renwood. Golf pro Diane Miller said while normally 20 compete in the club championship, 40 are this year.

A former caddy of five years at Twin Orchards Golf Course in Long Grove, Howes taught his son, Jason how to play. Jason won the junior flight for 17-19 year olds in a Lake County tournament at Renwood. He will be competing on the College of Lake County golf team this fall.

Grayslake SUMMER Days '92

Lakeland
Newspapers

With the end of the fiscal year for the Grayslake Community Park District, we can look back, review and assess the year with a smile on our face.

Yes, there was the obvious bad times for the Grayslake Community Park District, but its important we look at both the positive and the negative so we can build on these events. In building for the future, we must however, not neglect the bad times that we fell upon. In assessing the year, it can be determined as successful.

Our programs increased, we had a more diversified offering of recreational programs, we completed the acquisition of 40 acres to expand Central Park and we received word from the Governor's office that the Grayslake Community Park District was a recipient of a $69,800 development grant that will be used to develop the park site in the South Creek subdivision. With the news of this grant the community can see that the park district has a very aggressive approach to finding alternate funding for park projects and providing recreational services.

Whenever possible we will search out alternate funding whether it be from developer donations, grants or miscellaneous donations to improve our facilities. In May of 1991 the Board of Commissioners passed a resolution stating that they will keep the tax rate at .46 cents or below for the services provided by the Grayslake Community Park District. By obtaining grants for park acquisition and park development, we have been able to maintain our promise. Our current tax rate is .39 cents per assessed $100, a drop of over 16 percent from last year. As our tax rate went down, services have increased and responsibility has increased.

Three years ago the park acreage for the Grayslake Community Park District was at 26 acres, today it is in excess of 270 acres. With this type of development the future only looks bright. Our future for 1992 and beyond is quite simple: we will continue to strive to provide the highest quality of leisure programs and park lands to our community so you in turn can fulfill your leisure needs close to home without traveling a far distance. Our future also includes continued park development. Currently a grant application is planned for the Estates of Eastlake and Hunter's

Dear Residents

Ridge to develop each subdivision's park site. The grant will be submitted to the Illinois Department of Conservation by July 1st and we can only hope that this grant application will be just as successful as our other two grant applications have been in the last three years.

On a programming note, we encourage each of you to contact our office if you have a special skill that you would like to share. We especially encourage you to look at our brochures in the upcoming seasons and "TAKE TIME FOR FUN" and participate in a program or two. If you do not see a program that you are interested in and have an idea of what you would like to see the park district offer, please do not hesitate to contact our Superintendent of Recreation, we are always looking for input from the community.

On the horizon, our future possibly holds the construction of a community center and swimming pool for our community. Our staff, board and various volunteers are investigating financial funding to accomplish these improvements. I can assure you, and the park board is on record, that any major facility such as a community center or pool will not be accomplished without the approval of the voter. We will attempt in the coming months to keep the community informed of our future plans and we are hoping that the community will support this huge endeavor.

We are looking forward to the Fourth Annual Grayslake Summer Days at Central Park, sponsored by the Grayslake Community Park District.

In closing, I encourage each resident to contact the park district for any questions or concerns. Make note that on the first Saturday of every month, the park board will be taking tours of our facilities and park land. If you are interested in these tours (they last approximately one to one-and-a-half hours) please call us to sign up and remember "TAKE TIME FOR FUN" and get involved with the Grayslake Community Park District.

Sincerely,

John W. Wilson, CLP

Molly and the Heymakers

"A romping sound that barrels through like a country-style carnival on a Saturday night," describes the musical talents of Molly and the Heymakers. Best known for their original style and unforgettable stage show, this band will get everyone on their feet and feeling good!

Molly Scheer is a talented multi-instrumentalist, with a distinctive and original mandolin and fiddle style. A powerhouse performer. Andy Dee, guitar, steel guitar, dobro, vocals, fills the stage with his energy and humor which are truly infectious. Joe Lindzius, drums, percussion, and vocals, gives the Heymakers that distinctive vocal one-two punch. Jeff Nelson, bass, vocals, displays his melodic, driving bass work and locks in with the Lindzius' big beat to lay the foundation of the unforgettable Heymakers sound.

The Heymakers will be performing on the main stage Thursday, Aug. 20 at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m.

John Anderson

Country recording star John Anderson will be performing on the main stage Sunday, Aug. 23 at 8 p.m. He has had two back-to-back hits in "Straight Tequila Night," and "When It Comes To You."

It will be a great night of country with one of Nashville's most popular performers.

COLLEGE OF LAKE COUNTY

Can we talk?

From time to time, people tell us that CLC's quality programs and affordable tuition are some of the best-kept secrets in Lake County.

Maybe they like feeling they've got the inside track. Maybe they think of themselves as trendsetters.

We're sorry we have to disappoint them. But with enrollment approaching 16,000 students and more than 1 in 5 recent high school graduates now attending the college, the secret is out.

Perhaps the reason is our small class sizes, affordable tuition that's only $36.25 a credit hour or a faculty committed to teaching, not research.

Whatever the reason, we're sorry, all you insiders. Sometimes you just can't keep word of a good thing from spreading.

Isn't it time you learned more about CLC?

Registration for fall classes is now underway.

Lakeland

Fest activities includes bungee jumping

"What is bungee jumping?" Well, if you can imagine a person being strapped into a harness that is attached by elastic cords to a platform then, the platform and jumper are raised, with the help of a crane, to a height of 175' or 200' in the air, the bungee jumper steps out onto a small ledge and then hurls himself (or herself) out into space, the laws of gravity take over and the person falls until the bungee cords take hold. You then bounce up and down a few times until you are lowered safely to the ground. Sound like fun? This is the latest craze that has taken over at special events throughout the United States. Grayslake Summer Days Festival will offer bungee jumping from Aug. 20 to 23. Celebrity bungee jumping will be presented each of the four days at 6:30 p.m. Local promotions are being conducted by radio stations and Budweiser. Participants will have the opportunity to win a free bungee jump. "We have already received requests from a number of people to be included in the celebrity jumps," said Dwight Walton, president of Fun, Fairs and Festivals, Inc. Fun, Fairs and Festivals is producing the Grayslake Summer Days Festival. "The Bud Man from Budweiser was the first to come forward. I'm sure his cape will allow him to float down to earth. Several radio disk jockeys will be jumping. We're hoping they will do it live, on the air. The comments should be real interesting!"

"For the thrill of a lifetime" Grayslake Summer Days Festival-goers can bungee jump on Thursday and Friday from 6:30 to 11:30 p.m.; Saturday and Sunday bungee jumping will begin at 4 p.m.

Grayslake Summer Days Festival is being heralded as "The fun-filled family festival" with something for everyone.

Other entertainment includes racing pigs, carnival rides, game midway, the best regional bands, national performers, food booths, beer garden pavilion, Civil War encampment, arts and crafts show, petting zoo, country dance lessons, pony rides, camel rides and family activities created by the Grayslake Park Dist.

Admission to the main entertainment area is $3 for adults and children under 12 are free Wednesday through Saturday. On Sunday, admission fee for adults will be $5 due to the increased cost of the performances. Children under 12 are free.

Main stage entertainment during the five day fest will include New Odyssey on Wednesday, Molly and the Heymakers on Thursday, Lionel Cartwright on Friday, Buzz Kilman and the All-Bubba Blues Band on Saturday, and John Anderson on Sunday.

Pavilion bands highlighted will be Virgil Kane, Typical Lizard, Cheap

Dates, and Southern Strut.

A Civil War encampment will be displayed in Central Park during the day on Saturday, Aug. 22. Arts and crafts vendors will feature their wares on Saturday and Sunday.

Hours of Summer Days will be Wednesday and Thursday, 6 to 11 p.m.; Friday, 6 p.m. to midnight; Saturday, 1 p.m. to midnight; Sunday, 1 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Grayslake Summer Days Festival will take place at Central Park just north of the downtown area. Admission to the main entertainment area is $3 for adults Wednesday through Saturday and $5 on Sunday. Children under 12 are free. Entrance to the carnival midway is free.

Exchange Club members ready to quench thirsts

Developing a thirst that needs to be quenched fast at Grayslake Summer Days Festival?

Grayslake Exchange Club members will be ready with a cool glass of beer at the beer tent, located at the Central Park festival Aug. 19-23.

Approximately 25 of the club's 38 members are expected to be pulling the lever on the brew. The club was asked to perform the service by Fun Fairs & Festivals, organizers of the festival.

The service club members will be sporting new club shirts. Grayslake Exchange Club members, meanwhile, will be selling ride tickets.

O'Connor is the club's first female president in its 21-year history. But that is not unique to Lake County Exchange Clubs. Six clubs had president-elects last year.

"My favorite program was Special Olympics. I really enjoyed it. One thing that I would like to do is increase our youth oriented programs," O'Connor said.

The club sponsors Boy Scout Troop 96 and scouts helped last year with serving food at the pancake breakfast and the One Nation Under God event.

O'Connor, a Grayslake certified public accountant, has been in the club just two years. Last year she served as president-elect, in charge of the club's programs at weekly meetings.

O'Connor and the 1992-93 officers were sworn in at an Aug. 13 meeting. Robert Kautz will be president-elect pro tem; Joann Ritzwoller secretary and Robert W. Wegge will be treasurer.

The club welcomed 11 new members last year.

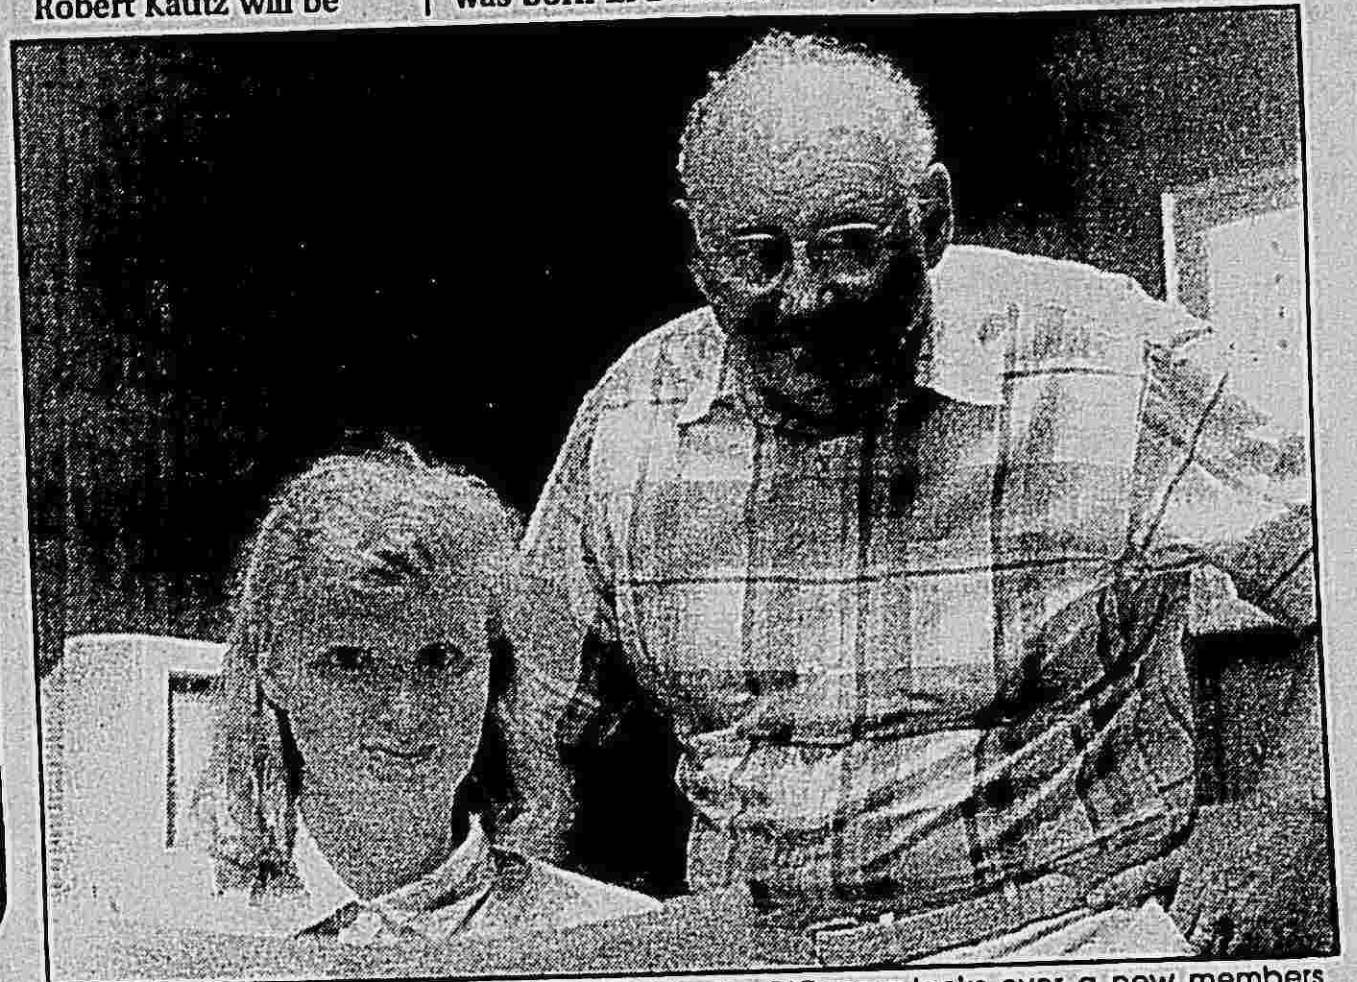

The club meets Thursdays at noon at Randell's restaurant in Grayslake.

O'Connor, whose husband is Grayslake police-man Dennis O'Connor, was born in Badtolz, Germany but her family moved to the United States when she was four.

"My Dad was hired as a driver for the Meister Brau stallion team. We came here for six months, but we're still here," O'Connor joked.

For more information on Exchange, call O'Connor at (708) 223-0777.

New Grayslake Exchange Club president Monika O'Connor looks over a new members brochure with last year's president Robert Wegge. Club members will be serving beer at Grayslake Summer Days Festival. Festival will be at Central Park Aug. 19-23.

Exciting activities set for fest

Visiting the Summer Days Festival could prove to be a very rewarding experience. Many local businesses are utilizing this year's event as an opportunity to not only show their community spirit, but also show-off their wares. The Summer Days Festival will be held Aug. 19 to 23 in Grayslake's Central Park. Activities include a mixture of national entertainment and familyland events. "The strong support from the business community has allowed us to create one of the most exciting events in northern Illinois," says Brian Walton of Fun, Fairs and Festivals. Fun, Fairs and Festivals is working with the Grayslake Park

Dist. to produce the Summer Days Festival.

Although not yet an Olympic sport, the racing pigs will once again provide excitement for all. This year, however, Jerry's Parkway Foods has upped the stakes. Supporters of winning pigs will receive valuable grocery coupons which can be used on their next shopping trip. Both the McDonald's in Grayslake and Round Lake have chipped in to further increase the value of a Summer Days Festival ticket. Any holder of a Summer Days ticket or ticket stub can receive a free order of regular French fries at these locations. On Friday, Aug. 21 US99 Radio will be broadcasting live and handing out concert tickets and other gifts to festival goers.

One of the hottest trends sweeping the nation is country dancing. The Sundance Saloon will be offering free country dance lessons to all festival visitors. Dancing times are 6 p.m. on Wednesday through Friday and 5 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. First of America Bank not only is sponsoring the musical group Virgil Kane on Thursday, but also will be distributing through local branches limited complimentary tickets for the Sunday night John Anderson concert and discount coupons for Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday nights.

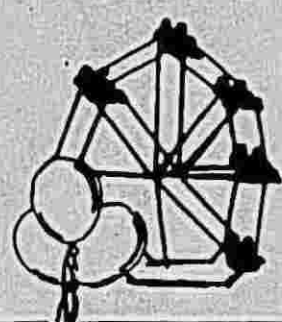

One hot summer festival

Hot fun in the summertime. Grayslake residents are looking forward to celebrating the last weekend of summer vacation before a new school year starts with Grayslake Summer Days Festival. Events will be held at Central Park Aug. 19-23. Eleven-year-old firm, Fun Fairs and Festivals events: pigs at the start of the race, the Midway and people of all ages enjoying summer fun.

CLC Golf Day nets $35,000

The College of Lake County Foundation's Third Annual Scholarship Golf Day proved to be the most successful golf outing to date by raising $35,000 for student scholarships.

The event at Glen Flora Country Club in Waukegan was attended by 92 golfers and 120 dinner guests.

While the event was successful for the college, eight area residents were winners of another sort. In the outing's raffle drawing, Robert Snook Sr. of Waukegan won a pair of round-trip tickets to London, compliments of American Airlines. Jackie Baker of Grayslake won an IBM personal computer, donated by Comark Inc.; and Delores O'Donnell of Schaumburg won a pair of custom-made golf clubs.

Other winners included Peter Cherry of Lake Forest, Mary Mooney of Mundelein, John Freese of Waukegan, Marjorie Martin of Libertyville and David Amory of Lake Forest.

Ranger diffuses tense moments at Van Patten Woods Preserve

A Lake County Forest Preserve ranger followed district policy in what was described as a hostile situation at Van Patten Woods.

That is the view of Art Gill, director of rangers for the Lake County Forest Preserve.

"It was a hostile situation and there was no backup," Gill said.

Rangers were informed of a possible hostage situation with a man with a gun at Van Patten Woods about 7:30 p.m. Aug. 8.

That report, called in to the Forest Preserve proved false and law enforcement authorities along with the Lake County States Attorney's office are investigating.

The person who was arrested, who may be from Waukegan, was told by park ranger Lester Herschinow to place his hands on his knees. But he continued to walk toward Herschinow and two shots were fired as warnings in the ground, according to Art Gill, director of rangers.

Police from Lake County Sheriff's Department, Zion and Illinois State Police arrived at the scene, for crowd control and to gather evidence.

County prosecutors are reviewing possible charges against the individual, whose name has not been released.

Morman works with ESPN

The Winona State University National Broadcasting Society worked in conjunction with the ESPN cable network during the month of July, covering national sporting events held at the Dome in Minneapolis.

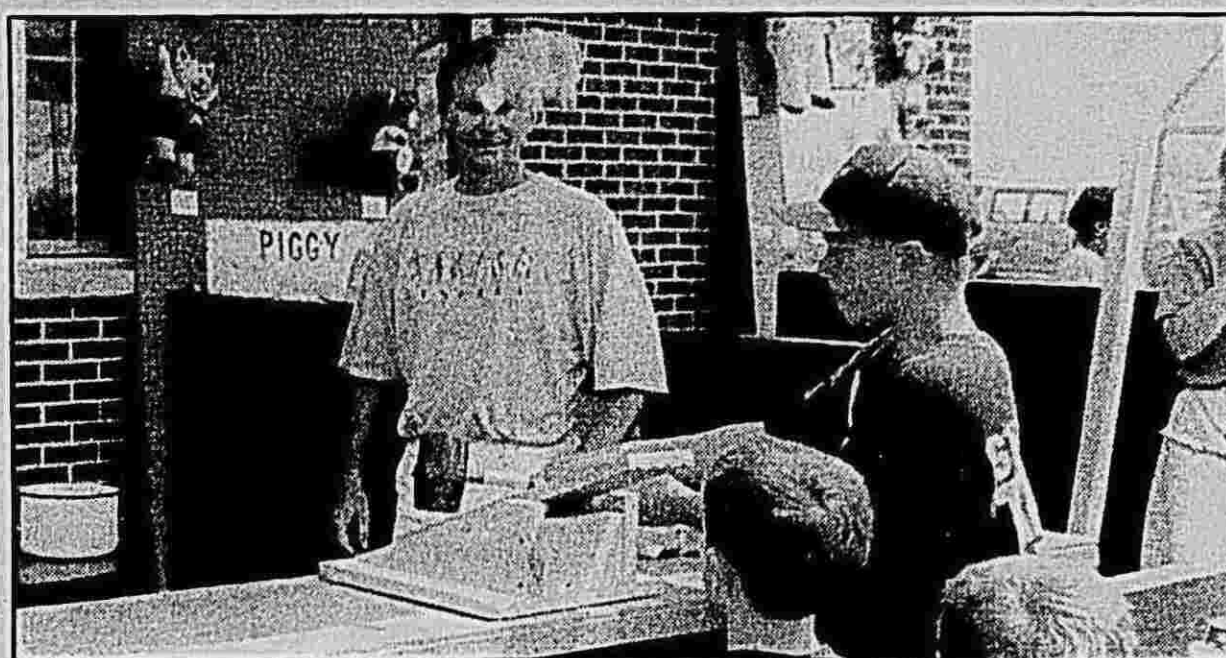

In June, a chapter member from WSU worked with ESPN in a similar setting. Mollie Morman, a senior from Lake Villa helped with the coverage of a Chicago White Sox series.

Morman worked with the ESPN crew providing statistical and crew-related help during the series.

Gill said a standard operating procedure investigation of the firing is being conducted in-house.

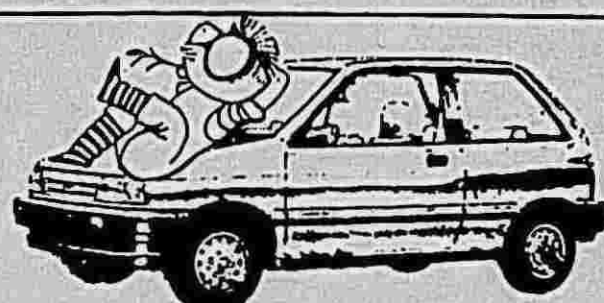

Gill said a domestic disturbance was involved between the person arrested and a woman.

Herschinson has been a Forest Preserve ranger for a year, but before that he served for 24 years as a Highland Park policeman.

One more supporter

Your Lakeland is a wonderful contribution with your Lipservice. It is great. It is really good. Just keep forging ahead, I am for you.

What happened to 4-H?

Hello, I attended the Lake County Fair last Saturday. And I stopped at the 4-H Club. I was appalled at the lack of 4-H, again. What has happened to the 4-H over the past few years? I saw plenty of 4-H people riding around on golf carts, but where were the kids? Where were the exhibits? A few years ago, 4-H at the fair looked like a lively place. Kids could learn things and blossom and have fun. Other exhibits were full this year, but where was 4-H? What is going on in Lake County?

Complaints and comments

Hi, I am calling from Grayslake and I have a couple of comments about the Warren Township Community Center. The first thing is about the Little League baseball program. I think that it is a wonderful program and I enjoy watching the boys play, but one of the complaints that I have is that there are no water fountains for the boys to drink from, none what so ever. The nearest ones are at the playground. I think that that ought to be corrected soon. My second comment is regarding the new vending machine. I don't see any need for that at all. I can't understand the logic behind it. Why do they have machines that dispense Coca-Cola and Pepsi and other soft drinks? The kids don't need that. I think it was bad judgment. I think that this Lipservice is a great column and I thank you for the opportunity to voice my comments.

Ban the billboards!

I think that we should start a movement to ban all billboards in Lake County. They are an eyesore, a nuisance and I think that it would beautify the county and make it much more classy. We should have a movement to ban billboards. Anybody with me out there?

Thanks from Wildwood

I think this column is great. It is a great way for people to get things out and let people know what is going on. I just want to give a public thank you to all of the people who helped with the Homeowners Organization of Wildwood picnic that was held on July 12. Even with all the rain, they were there cooking hot dogs and clowning around, and just making the day a lot funner. Also, I just want to let all Wildwood residents know that they are more than welcome and invited to join HOW. If you would like more information about HOW, please call 223-0176. Again thanks to everyone who made that rainy Sunday a little brighter. Bye.

Men are victimized too

To the person who complained about men picketing abortion chambers, men who do this are almost always fathers who treasure their children's lives, or potential fathers. Maybe the one you saw lost a child to an abortion. It is too easy to toss out accusations of sexism. When one understands the destruction that abortion reaps upon the mother as well as the child, it is hard to sit by and do nothing. If you believe abortion is safe and easy, and that the child is just a part of the mother's body, you have been victimized and deceived by miseducation.

Antioch pageant just wonderful

Hi, I just recently watched the Antioch pageant on cable tv on Monday and was truly impressed with every aspect of it. It seemed to be very professionally done. The stage decor was beautiful. The music themes they had and the lights provided a real special and wonderful effect. The acts they had in between were good quality.

The speakers did an excellent job of making the show flow well. The whole production looked as if a great deal of hard work and planning went into it. I think some credit is due to the person who put the whole thing together, Olga Demski. She really out did herself this year. What a wonderful tribute to the Antioch's Centennial. My hat goes off to her and to all of those people that helped her. Thank you.

We need a store, jobs

Yes, I happen to agree with the people who have been calling in about a bigger store in Antioch. Maybe if enough people call in, some of the politicians would do something about it. With the closing of Regal China, we lost 150 jobs in Antioch. I think that that would be a perfect place for a big store so we could keep our tax dollars in the area. Thank you.

Political changes shape county health department

JOSEPH SOULAK
Lakeland Newspapers

For better or worse, the Lake County Health Dept. has taken on a new look. It continued over two years with the addition of new faces to an expanded 12-member health board.

Last week the board fired long-term director Steven Potsic, 50. The first professional to hold that job, he came to Lake County 17 years ago from the New York State Health Dept. where he directed a bureau for disabled children.

Potsic has been succeeded by interim director Dale Galassie, 39. He has been managing director for much of the 12 years he has been with the department.

Galassie will retain that title while a search for a new director gets underway. That is expected to take about four months.

Potsic's firing was engineered by County Board Chairman Robert Depke. He said almost from the day he took office two years ago he wanted changes in the Health Dept. But he also disavowed involving politics.

Among his political moves since that time was the appointment of allies to the Health board as terms of other members expired. Last year he expanded the board from eight to 12 members with the addition of four more friends. They included County Board members Robert Grever of Lake Zurich and Colin McRae of Mundelein.

Another appointee was Martin Paulson of Libertyville, manager of the Parkway restaurant in Waukegan. The Parkway failed Health Dept. inspections before and since Paulson's appointment.

Late last year Paulson was elected chairman of the board. Shortly after the board refused a raise for Potsic, saying his evaluation for the prior year did not warrant it.

Terms of his Aug. 6 firing call for him to receive six months of severance pay and up to one year of insurance benefits. Potsic was paid $119,000. The vote to fire him was 11-0 with one board member absent. The board said Potsic leaves in good standing.

Potsic was the first health professional to head the department. Qualifications for a successor include the possibility of naming anyone from a professional administrator to a politician.

The Health Dept. is among Lake County's largest. It has an annual budget of approximately $20 million. It will remain virtually unchanged for the coming year, as now proposed by a County Board committee. It has more than 600 employees.

Almost 90 percent of the department's budget is for medical and social service programs. It is how the other 10 percent was spent on environmental health that led to Potsic's demise.

Restaurant owners complained about inspections. While not any more stringent than elsewhere in Illinois, they overlooked little. Restaurants like the Parkway often received failing grades.

Builders complained new septic tank regulations were too demanding. The regulations prevented building on small lots in older subdivisions, on flood plains or, replacing existing septic tanks without a special permit. One requirement called for adequate drainage fields, meaning new homes could require lots of up to one acre.

This happened to Robert Streicher, director of the Lake County Building and Zoning Dept. He sued when he was denied to build an oversize, three-level home on one acre of Ishnala Estates in rural Lake Villa Twp. He won.

Builders, who are large contributors to the pro-development membership of the County Board, including Depke, complained. So did restaurant owners.

Depke's appointees expressed his dissatisfaction at board meetings. More than 90 percent of some meetings were taken up by environmental concerns that took only 10 percent of the budget.

Residents of North Chicago and Waukegan these programs benefitted say they may now suffer at the hands of probusiness forces that are in control.

Potsic tried to stay above the politics that had not been present in his first 15 years as director.

Just as those in his agency viewed him as authoritarian, the public soon began to believe the same. Potsic did not have high visibility outside of his domain on Grand Ave. in Waukegan. To most, the Health Dept. was the restaurant or septic tank inspector, the biologist administering a lakes management program for municipalities, the nurse or health professionals in Health Dept. programs.

While current board members say no further changes are contemplated, they denied for two years any were being considered. But as already seen, the new board wants to make the agency more cooperative with those its regulates.

This puts a professional agency in the political arena.
